Baluns/ununs really are NOT an RFI reduction system. They provide proper impedance matching between antenna and feedline. Coax, with an rf choke (can be a balun/unun) allows the feedline to run though noisy areas and not pick up the noise there, such as when it enters a house with noise present.

Baluns/ununs/rf-transformers, because of the use in gaining a superior match (transfer of signal energy) improves signal to noise ratio, in most instances, and this can appear to be functioning as a "RFI reduction system."

The nation is divided over the law, but the strength and intensity of the opposition appear diminished. The law expands coverage to more than 30 million uninsured, and would require, for the first time, that most people in the United States carry health insurance.

The poll finds that 40 percent of those surveyed said they support the law, while 41 percent oppose it. Just after the November congressional elections, opposition stood at 47 percent and support was 38 percent.

As for repeal, only about one in four say they want to do away with the law completely. Among Republicans support for repeal has dropped sharply, from 61 percent after the elections to 49 percent now.

Also, 43 percent say they want the law changed so it does more to re-engineer the health care system. Fewer than one in five say it should be left as it is.

That's why the Sacramento Delta has 40' levees everywhere (that haven't been maintained since E. G. Brown Jr.'s last governor deal.) I am 1,790' above Mean Sea Level. There is a river at the bottom of the hill that runs 40 miles all the way to Ventura. Drainage baby, drainage.

Northern Californians are descended from 49ers and the people who preyed on them. They are very self-sufficient pioneer stock. Most of the crap they grow in the Central Valley is unfit for human consumption already.

Former Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) has a message for Republicans moving to repeal President Obama's landmark health care reform law: Don't.

Frist, a physician who retired from Congress in 2007, said while the legislation is not perfect, and "not the bill that I would have drafted," it is "the law of the land."

He suggests that instead of mounting an effort to repeal it (which is doomed in the House), Republicans should use the law as a "platform" to improve the law.

No such thing. Those isolators just keep hum away. Hum is not your problem. You are likely hearing triac noise (dimmer buzz, halogen torchieres, waterbed heaters, etc.) over the air. It is coming in or power lines and RF chokes on those lines will stop it at the electrical box. But because you have overhead mains that probably won't help enough. You may be able to reduce it enough to get better results from your phase canceller. I'm peabrainstorming here...

For those interested, RTHK broadcast weather reports for (as I recall) the South China Sea Yacht Race in the mid 80's on 3940 kHz. I don't remember whether it was an annual event or not, but I have at least two QSL's (veries, for those in Glendale) for two seperate races.

I'll have to get out my original 'Little Red Book' sent to me by Radio Peking back in the mid 60's to commemorate President Hu's visit to the USA.

One thing I miss is 'The East Is Red' interval signal.

What dave was attempting to describe is common mode noise. This is probably at least a portion of your noise, best for you to decide:

The links and scientific/technical papers on Common Mode Noise are simply without end. Feel free to use a search engine and find material which is easy for you to digest ...

Thanks RHF.

I'm currently using one like this one :
http://www.ure.es/yabbfiles/Attachments/Balun_1a9.gif which is identical to this (my model) :
http://www.hard-core-dx.com/nordicdx/antenna/feed/9_1balun.html

I have a coax going from my radio (Sangean 909) until the window (1st floor = one floor above ground), at this point I set the balun/unun, then one wire goes up the roof as an inverted L antenna (vertical leg = 2m, horizontal leg = 8m), another wire going down to a buried metal bat in the yard.

Working well so far, but if the other design improves things, I'm ready to try ;-)

That is an rf transformer and does not operate in TLT mode. If it works? That's great, but no common mode rejection ... you may be in a quiet area with no noise sources along the feedline path into the house.

OK, understood, but I have always thought (based on what I have read) that one of these matching transformers, properly deisgned and grounded, can bleed off some noise to ground. Am I misled?

OK, good info. Do you think a magnetic loop could diminish reception of the RFI from the overheads? Like, as Peter M. suggests, a Wellbrook?

Local environmental noise, and static, yes. Man made noise, or noise radiated into the antenna space, not so much, no.

A properly designed matching transformer will improve the transfer of antenna output to the receiver. And it will help drain off static buildup on the antenna, and help reduce the noise floor.
But, if noise is being radiated into the air, as from powerlines, digital toys, and dimmers and similar sources, and your antenna is picking that up, it will depend on the antenna's ability to discriminate between desired and undesired frequencies whether or not you see a reduction in undesired signals.

It sounds as though much of your noise problem is related to your connection to the mains. Mains borne noise is a big problem in radio hobbycraft. Most of the noise in my own area is brought in through the mains. The remainder is radiated from the hundreds of devices throughout the neighborhood.

It's possible, though a PITA to do so, to bypass the mains with safety caps between .1 - .01mfd (safety caps are essential, here, for fire prevention) to reduce the irregular impulses on the line. And isolation transformer, balanced to ground will also produce significant results in reducing your noise, but that can be expensive.

Your least difficult path may be in isolating your radios from the mains, entirely, and move to battery power.

NO, you are not mislead. They are death on common mode noise. If your problem is common mode noise they work like a miracle ... the signal to noise boost the match ain't bad either ...

Roy, as our resident research "expert", maybe you can find out why people do not want universal health care for those under 65, but apparently have no problem with universal health care for those over 65, a.k.a. Medicare.

I have heard virtually no hue and cry to repeal Medicare. Quite the opposite, really. One Tea-bagger on the news was foaming at the mouth against health care but then said "Don't you dare mess with my Medicare". Whatta moron.

> ! REDO UNIVERSAL HEATH CARE RIGHT !

YES! But too bad none of the Republicans in Congress suggested this. All they can say is "kill it, Kill It, KILL IT". Too bad the Repubs shot it down when the Clinton administration tried to to something about health care. Too bad health care wasn't even on the radar during George W. Bush's eight year reign (other than the opposite -- W giving gigantic gifts to the insurance companies and Big Pharma). So please, Do NOT hold your breath waiting for the Repubs to "REDO UNIVERSAL HEATH CARE RIGHT".

Perhaps it's because Medicare is/was ostensibly paid for via extractions from ones paycheck (if you work, check your paystub), AND, even when one collects SS, there is a hefty deduction from that, per month, for Medicare.

Hopefully all those stations will eventually move above 7300kHz. It is really nice on the low end of 40 meters since the first move. I heard OX3KQ in Greenland contact a station in South Africa this afternoon on 7128 kHz (SSB).

It depends on the station. Mauritania now runs 250 KW and was S9 + 20dB at 2230UTC. But I agree. Most SW broadcast stations run substantially less power and are a definite challenge to ID.

I think that is why I like to ID pirate operators. Some of them are running in the milliwatts.

I have heard amazing things. That model is pricey. You can build an experimental loop for the price of a variable capacitor from MFJ and some scrap coax.

Yes, when the signal arriving at the antenna has chosen two separate paths to reach that antenna ... very recogniseable audio phenomenon ...

But, LDEs, when there are seconds of delay, sometimes MANY seconds, and which does not relate to them reflecting off the time it would take them to reflect off any known astrological bodies ... spooky! When you hear your own transmissions repeated to you, seconds later, if on SSB as a side signal to the other party ... AMAZING!

Almost an argument for them reflecting off some alien spacecraft! ROFLOL

Probably a signal that gets trapped for a complete circuit of the globe (or two) before being heard again, with unusually low losses.
Happened to me once, back in 1994, on 75 meters, an hour or so before sunset. It was definitely spooky. Heard my own voice delayed perhaps a tenth or two tenths of a second -- enough to hear the last syllable or two.

Just the other night, I heard another amateur on 75 experiencing the same thing, or so he said -- I couldn't hear it at all.

Thanks, Peter - This may be all true - but for the record, with the radios plugged in, I disconnected the antennas and kept the grounds connected. The radios got very quiet; based on this, I don't think it's the mains.

FWIW, I have an RFI filter on the 115 VAC - this item:

Yeah, not surprised Bob. My radios are all good, I am quite certain.
Being able to get them away from this RF mess to a quite location.
Maybe I'll try to match up the astronomy sessions with the radios.

Thanks - Maybe, but I think ferrites on the RF cables might be more critical than on the power cables. The radios are nice and quite when I disconnect the antennae; no noise level at all even with the multiple preamps all the way up.

I had a noise I couldn't get rid of, a few years ago. Everything pointed to some radiated phenomenon. Tried disconnecting the antenna.
Things got very quiet. Finally tracked it down with a Zenith transistor radio. It was, in fact, noise on the mains, radiated into the antenna space. Filtered the line and modded an offending device that was putting the spike on the line. Cleaned it right up.

A transitor radio can be useful in tracking down the source. Follow the noise, turn off each implement one at a time, and you'll find the source or sources of noise.

You sound like you're living in the noise equivalent of the Little Big Horn.

Such a device is best used as close to the source as practical.

This one is plugged into the wall between the radio and the socket.
Can you get any closer than that?

I also know factually that a MW radio brought near things like wall switches and plugs results in a 60 Hz hum on the radio. It is really noticeable with a little loop antenna swiveled around - whenever it points to the wall switch, you hear that hum. The hum is not apparent on the SW bands at all; but on powerhouse MW stations like KGO locally here, the hum is solidly behind the audio.

This looks bad, worse than my situation. I just have the local residential feeder out front, probably 12 kv, and a set of parallel feeders in back that probably range up to 138 kv that serves the industrial park 500 feet west of me. I can often reduce noise from one source with my MFJ-1026 (similar to the ANC-4), but just the one.
I hate the idea of piling up multiple MFJs and antennae to try to catch all of the sources.

There are some high-tension lines out about 1/2 mile west or so, but they are pretty far. They audibly crackle and snap all the time, though, whenever I ride my bike past them.

That is indeed interesting. The one thing that I find fascinating is that no one has come forward it seems, either a nurse or a doctor, to state that they attended his birth in Hawaii.

And recently, I recall a Democrat leaning pundit postulating that it would not make any difference now whether Hussein was foreign born or not as the people of the USA voted him into office.

San Diego, like most of populated California, is 3 dimensional. That 40'
Office. In San Diego it could mean the Airport, which is right downtown.
Parts of San Diego have more hills than parts of San Francisco.

They already have funded it. Plus it looks like another Continuing Resolution will fund the government at present levels for several more months. Are you going to demand that senior citizens (huge % who vote)

Maybe you should just use 50 Ohm resistors in lieu of antennas. Very low VSWR; should work great.

If such a person had come forward the right wing media would not have because you live in an alternate reality.

The current governor was friends with Obama's family in 1961. He remembers Obama's mom being pregnant. There are birth announcements in

The 'concept' is that the Feed-in-Line "Inline Isolator" [1:1 Transformer] is in the Radio Shack -or- at the point the Feed-in-Line enters the House/Building.

Mount the "Inline Isolator" directly on a Ground Rod right outside the Radio Shack Window.
http://www.wellbrook.uk.com/longwire.html

Placement at this point prevents the AC Line Noise and other RFI Noises in the House from 'migrating' out along the Coax to the Antenna|End; and then ?reflecting?
back from the Antenna along the Coax back into the Radio Shack and into the Radio/Receiver.

Reality : I did In-Fact Read and Review around 60 to 80 Links/URLs for :
Hospital + Prescription + Drug + Deaths

JAMA Vol 284 : Medical Errors in Hospitals may be the 3rd Leading Cause of Death in the United States. "Latrogenic"
And the #1 Cause of these Deaths is Rx Drugs Administered in the Hospitals.

-search-for- How Common Are Hospital Medical Mistakes ?

There has to be better Procedures and Methods in Hospitals to Ensure that Patients :
* Get the Right Drugs
* Get the Right Amount of Drugs
* Get The Drugs On-Time
+ Don't Get Sicker from Rx Drugs
+ Don't Die from Rx Drugs

In doing so I also discovered that :
One of the Biggest Factors is the Amount of Un-Reporting and Under-Reporting that goes On -wrt- this Killer Issue.

There has to be a Government Legal Requirement to Report these Hospital Rx Drug Administration Errors.

It needs to be closer to the noise source...the device that's putting the noise on the lines. That may be difficult.

That sounds like it's not just an A/C borne problem. That sounds like you've got some RF in there, as well, mixing with other signals.
Probably rectified through a poor mechanical connection between metal components of a nearby structure, or your house. A local FM would create this collection of symptoms, too.

How far is KGO from your property?

More info to refute your statement above...

In today's (1/19/11) Wall Street Journal, the HEADLINE story on the front page was about how for the first time in ten years, American manufacturers have hired more people than they let go. The thrust of the article is that American manufacturing is doing great, a lot more jobs than any time in the last ten years.

Tell me, Roy, how do you reconcile this with your statement above? Is the WSJ a commie/socialist/Marxist rag?

In any event, I'm confident you can find a way to spin this and actually "blame Obama".

KGO's 50 kW transmitter is about 5-6 miles, along the bay shore. That is not all - I also have two additional 50 kW xmtrs within 2 miles of the house, also along the bay shore. Their signals are potent, to say the least. I hear them pretty easily with no antenna attached and the preamps off.

To be clear - the KGO signal I refer to is on their normal frequency of 810 kHz. As far as I can tell, I get no serious harmonics from them. WRT to the other two stations, well - harmonics out the ying-yang...plus a few mixing products. As far as I know, we have no local FM xmtrs.

Thanks - I have a few of those on already - maybe I need more. I'd buy a batch of 100 if they were not so pricey and put them on everything.

You don't need harmonics for 810 to be a problem. It sounds like you're getting mix products into your radio. It also sounds like you're getting RF into your radio through something other than your antennna. In such an RF field of such intensity, that's not surprising. I've got a 5000w local AM about 7 miles from me. That creates enough chaos.

Ferrite cores will help to attenuate some of the leakage into your radio. A core at the radio end, and at the far end will go along way to eliminating the hum you describe.

But mix products are difficult to track down, let alone eliminate. You'll need to find, and isolate the point at which rectification is taking place, and that could be ANYWHERE...wherever metal components in any structure touch, you can get rectification, which will product mix products from the environmental RF. It took me a couple of years to finally track down and eliminate the mix products being generated on my property. Padding down the antenna input also helped.

You really ARE in the Little Big Horn for noise and interference.

It sounds like, if you use an outdoor antenna, you need a 9:1 balun/unun (depending on antenna design/length) at the point where the feed line feeds the antenna, with the shield grounded at this point to a good earth ground.

Next, a 1:1 unun (50 to 50, or 75 to 75, ohm) between the coax and the receiver, with a good earth ground on the receiver.

This should remove any common mode noise on the shield of the coax.
This is what I use ...

If you use a balanced antenna, you need a balun at the feedline where it feeds the antenna, if you use a longwire/unbalanced-antenna, you need a unun at this point.

JS

You know about how big a 33 pound bag of dog food is? That's why every time I buy a big bag of Pro Pac dog food for doggy, I always dump the food into a stainless steel box and I lay a thin piece of plywood on top.Doggy knows she can knock that piece of plywood off with her nose and get to her food in case I croak.I also keep her dog food bowl topped up.

Tobruk is in Lybia. I believe it is not that close to Tunisia- it is on the eastern border with the Land of Pharaoh/Moses. Kasserine is Tunisia- right where Erwin showed his best military talent.

when the government has grown so irresponsible the the people, when the people are so opposed to the government ... it is obvious, we no longer have any relationship to this government.

Colorado Plateau is 5000ft.+ so I presume it qualifies to be called as a mountain(ous) region. 300 million years ago was trulyway before the traditional Deluge,recorded in the ancient legends of every nation on Earth. And that occured ca. 11 to 12 thousand ears ago; if I'm wrong ,please correct me .

Does he always piss his pants when he goes to a charity? You can see it in the pictur, dummy. Maybe that's why he went out of business and the Jeruselem Falafel place is still running. Maybe he gave away too much to charity. Hahahahahahaha!

Does he always piss his pants when he goes to a charity? You can see it in the pictur, dummy. Maybe that's why he went out of business and the Jeruselem Falafel place is still running. Maybe he gave away too much to charity. Hahahahahahaha!

- Thanks - I have a few of those on already
- maybe I need more.
- I'd buy a batch of 100 if they were not so pricey
- and put them on everything.

to your Radio Shack Room.

PHASE ONE : -Turn-Off-The-AC-Main-Breakers-
The Harder Work would be to Turn-Off you AC Main Breaker to the House and Install a Ferrite Core on the Wire {Line} coming from the Circuit Breakers that Services your Radio Shack AC Plugs and Lights.

Note : First you have to Identify those 2~3 Circuit Breakers in the Service Panel and the Lines {Wires} connected to them.

PHASE TWO : -Turn-Off-The-Circuit-Breakers-Also not easy is to find the Branch Boxes in the http://ecmweb.com/nec/crowded_codewatchweb.jpg House's Wiring that are in the Circuit Path from the Service Panel to your Radio Shack.
Either in the Attic or in the Basement / Crawl-Space.
This is Dirty Work in a Hot Summer Attic
-or- Wet & Muddy in the Winter in a Crawl-Space with an Earth Floor.
-so-dress-appropriately-as-needed-

Open-up the Branch Boxes and install the Install a Ferrite Core on all 2~3 Wires.
* If you have new Wiring which uses the Twist-On Wire Connectors :
https://www.hardwareworld.com/files/pi/l0/5/C443.jpg
You may be able to use something like these Slide-On Ferrite Cores of the Right Size for your Wires. Use 2~3 Ferrites Per Wire.
Ferrite Core 6.6mm x 9.5mm 1/4"W x 3/8"L Round EMI Suppressor (40 LOT) http://cgi.ebay.com/380306728593
* However if you have older House Wiring that has Soldered Joints the Clamp-On Ferrites will do.

PHASE THREE : -Turn-Off-The-Circuit-Breakers-
The Wall Receptacles Duplex-Outlets all around the Radio Shack Room.
Install 2~3 Slide-On Ferrite Cores on each of the 2~3 Wires connected to each Duplex-Outlet.
* Older Wiring may only have a 2-Prong Outlet with Two Wires White and Black
* Newer Wiring may have a 3-Prong Outlet with Two Wires White and Black and a Green or Bare Copper/AL Wire for Ground.
http://www.electricalwire.biz/images/Romex_wire.jpg
http://www.skycraftsurplus.com/images/view.aspx?productId=828

This may have all three Wires going to the Duplex-Outlet
-or- Two Wires going to the Duplex-Outlet and the Green or Bare Copper/AL Ground Wire going to the Metal Box.
Either way Install 2~3 Slide-On Ferrite Cores on the Green or Bare Copper/AL Ground Wire too.

Next the Ceiling Lights : Do the same Install
2~3 Slide-On Ferrite Cores on each of the 2~3
Wires in the Ceiling Light's Electrical Box.

Then the Wall Switches : Do the same Install
Wires in the Wall Switch Electrical Box.

NOTE : This is the Time when you are doing this Work to : Clean the Bare Wire Ends and Securely Re-Fasten {Screw} the Wires to the Duplex-Outlets; Light Fixtures; and Wall Switches.
-cause-age-and oxidation-make-for-bad-connections-

Same Basic Three Wire Electric Cables
http://www.hardwarestore.com/pop-print/larger-image.aspx?prodNo=64511
http://www.hardwarestore.com/pop-print/larger-image.aspx?prodNo=49272

=OR= Start in the Radio Shack Room with Phase Three and work back to Phase Two and Phase One.

hope this helps - iane ~ RHF

2136. OT - My Sirrus XM Radio Nightmare

Recently I took the Sirrus Radio XM Plunge and ordered their portable radio with MP3 player. Boy was that a mistake. When the radio arrived the antenna coax was too short so I had to order a 50 foot extension. Once the antenna coax I arrived I went about setting up my XM radio. As I tuned around the channels I couldn't find any sports channels or Howard Stern, I hadn't listened to him since he went to Sirrus, I then called XM where the lady with a heavy foreign accent using a VOIP line that was muffled informed to get those channels I would have to pay an additional $44. Well OK I said I wanted to be able to listen to weekend sports while on my daily exercise at the park. After the extended channels were activated all of sudden every 45 seconds the audio on the radio would cut out for about four seconds. It didn't matter if I used a car stereo, plugged in a external speaker or used the players head phone jack it would cut out, but the Sat signal was 100%.

Dealing with XM tech support amounted to calling and getting put into voice mail jail then being disconnected. When I did get a tech they didn't know anything, I don't even think they knew they worked on behalf of XM or Sirrus radio.

After fifteen days of going back and forth I finally throw in the towel and after four attempts I was able to get an RMA number. So I sent the radio, coax and software (BTW, the XM MP3 Software works only w/ WinXP 32-bit nothing else) back to XM via UPS with all parts in their original packaging. Was that good enough for XM? Hell no it wasn't. They claimed they didn't get all the parts back when I called them weeks later about my refund. So I asked them what parts I didn't return? They didn't know what parts were missing, but they insisted they were missing. After several more calls I finally was awarded the credit for the XM radio. However according to XM since I had not canceled the subscription within the first 30 days they would keep my 220.00 subscription fees.

Lucky for me I kept a copy of all my XM documentation and printed out the contract, item five plainly stated I could return the radio and cancel the service by calling them upon return of my radio which I did. So I gathered up all the documentation made copies and used highlights to show return of the items by UPS, the subscription and equipment refund clause then sent them to my credit card company to dispute the charges. After 20 days the CC credited my account the subscription fees.

All I can say Shortwave never caused this much headache and I even had to install a long wire antenna to catch the transmissions.

Sounds like you had a defective radio.

It also sounds like the amalgamation of Sirius and XM has done nothing for XM's customer service, which was adequate, but little more.

Sorry you had this experience.

When I signed up, they were starving for subscribers, so I got very good service. I also took advantage of the lifetime subscription option when it was available. And haven't had to deal with them since.

Tough times usually produce two things: 1) Better companies, or 2) Worse service. It would seem that Sirius/XM has taken the latter option.

If they were, does your culture require they be vilified? Here in the U.S. we're starting to take a lighter view of such things and, instead look at things such as the rising juvinile crime rate (Lord knows we've enough of that).

Although I've always supported diversity, on the other hand, it still annoys me slightly when someone (straight or gay) wants to always "shake it in my face", you know what I mean? It's just not that big-a-deal.

Sea levels rose about 70 feet or so when the ice started melting after

Although the details of sunspot generation are still a matter of research, it appears that sunspots are the visible counterparts of magnetic flux tubes in the Sun's convective zone that get "wound up" by differential rotation. If the stress on the tubes reaches a certain limit, they curl up like a rubber band and puncture the Sun's surface.
Convection is inhibited at the puncture points; the energy flux from the Sun's interior decreases; and with it surface temperature.

Have you tried "Shoutcast" or "V-tuner" or "Icecast" or the radio streaming part of "iTunes"? Satellite radio is obsolete unless you're a trucker in West Texas. The audio quality is horrible. There are 20,000 free stations on the web, a lot of them are totally non-commercial.

Nothing to do with "one data point". You said Obama wasn't creating jobs. The WSJ says he is. That proves you wrong. Period.

Furthermore, you seem to have a very short memory. On 1/17 I made the following post:

> There was an announcement last week [from another organization] that

So there are TWO data points for you.

Oh, you must be referring to the Depression that was already rolling down the mountain on the first day Obama took office. The Depression that started on Bush's watch? THAT Depression?

Joe from Kokomo<j...@indy.net> wrote:

And you did! Your original stament said "He's Failing To Create Jobs"; the WSJ and the other national news sources said jobs ARE being created. All your blather about 'one data point' and 'aliens' is just that...blather. Jobs ARE being created, slowly but being created none the less. (I don't think you would be so unreasonable as to expect Obama to clean up this mess in only two years, when it took Bush eight years to create it). Well, on second thought, maybe you could be that unreasonable.

Bottom line is that there is no sense in wasting any more electrons on this debate. Whatever Obama does, you have pre-judged it as being wrong. Your mind is made up and you don't want to be confused with the facts.

Well, they don't know for sure, but here is the very latest theory:

Although the details of sunspot generation are still a matter of research, it appears that sunspots are the visible counterparts of magnetic flux tubes in the Sun's convective zone that get "wound up" by differential rotation. If the stress on the tubes reaches a certain limit, they curl up like a rubber band and puncture the Sun's surface.
Convection is inhibited at the puncture points; the energy flux from the Sun's interior decreases; and with it surface temperature, thus creating what we call sunspots.

Save your money until you find out definitively whether your RFI is actually coming in internally or externally, and if it is external, the ONLY way to resolve that issue is trying to get something done with your local power provider.

Yes. It's a real preselector. You have to have real 50 Ohms in. If you use wire antennas they have an active model for about $20 more. eham reviews may be helpful. I used my 956 for my Lowe HF-150.

The essential question, which must be answered before all of the others, is:

What do we mean by "we"?

If the answer is "anybody who calls himself American" or "any biped that lives between the 49th parallel and the Rio Grande," then "we" are not going to do anything about it. Ever.

Valid points ...

I mean real and patriotic Americans which know they are endowed with inalienable rights and the duty to protect them with their lives, if necessary.

I mean every man and woman which knows beyond all else that they were never born to serve another man or a government not acting on the majority of the peoples will and benefit.

He calls for an investigation and he plainly states he does not agree with the NIST investigation, the videos I pointed out clearly demonstrate this:

If you deny that, you do so at the loss of credibility.

IMHO : There Are Three Kinds of Americans :
-wrt- Your only an American if you realize it.

#1 - The Vast Majority ~70% Who Are PROUD To Be Americans :
Love America & Know Their Rights & Believe in America
* They Realize / Know That They Are Americans and say : "I Am Blessed"

#2 - A Minority ~21% Who Simply Take Being an American For Granted : They Live Here and Exist Here : But Things Beyond Their Immediate Daily Lives Do Not Concern Them.
* They Realize / Know That They Are Americans
and say : 'so what'.

#3 - A Smaller Minority ~9% Who Are ASHAMED To Be Americans : Hate Themselves for Being Americans & Hate America & Hate All Other Americans
* They Realize / Know That They Are Americans and say : 'I Hate My-Self'.

Proud To Say : I AM AN AMERICAN - Amen ~ RHF

Actually, is says this:
"No person except a natural born Citizen, or a Citizen of the United States, at the time of the Adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the Office of President; neither shall any Person be eligible to that Office who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty-five Years, and been fourteen Years a Resident within the United States."

Since no one is left alive when the Constitution was adopted, HE MUST BE A NATURAL BORN CITIZEN ... which means he MUST have had his birth on American soil ...

You can achieve sufficient choking action (impedance) at low frequencies with fewer turns on ferrite material, such as #43 ... however, powdered iron toroids can also be used ...

Real facts:
John McCain was born on Coco Solo submarine base, in the panama canal zone, a USA military base and of sovereign American soil. You just Barack Obama (actual name barry soetoro) was born in Kenya, Africa. He

In the country, noise is low. At my present location there is moderate manmade noise, with a 120 ft antenna, ~35 ft in the air, a long wire with a 9:1 unun at the antenna and a 1:1 unun at the rig, I find the tuner invaluable. Sure, it is only useful on signals where the broadcast signal is greater than the the noise level, but then, so is everything else, including the receiver, only useful then ... other than noise elimination circuitry on the more expensive models ... some DSP actually works, and works well.

how about a new strategy?

Rather than argue how the WTC fell, it might be more cost effective to focus on the Pentagon event.
The so-called flight 77 certainly did not hit the Pentagon and Cheney clearly "Let it Happen"
And that incident is on it's way to court. When the truth comes out, the whole scam called "Ground Zero" will fall like a house of cards that it is.

Pilots For 9/11 Truth Sign Affidavit In Lawsuit Brought By Pentagon Survivor
07/15/2009 - (Pilotsfor911truth.org) April Gallop, a survivor of the Pentagon Attack on September 11, 2001, is now suing Cheney, Rumsfeld, Myers and other officials for their possible role in the attack and failure to evacuate the Pentagon. The lawsuit cites Flight Data Recorder Analysis. Pilots For 9/11 Truth have been called upon to sign our names and professional reputations to the analysis which will be presented before a judge in a court of law.
Several individuals who make excuse for the govt story such as Glenn Beck, some who refuse to put their names and faces to their claims such as those who spend their days and nights obsessed with us, and those who endlessly attempt to smear anyone who questions 9/11 (albeit poorly), constantly complain we will never take our concerns to court. They have once again been proven wrong.

Awwwwww. How many times has this happened before?

John, I used to live in rural Massachusetts, and it was dreamy - quiet backgrounds, all sorts of SA and CA DX all the time on the tropical bands. I didn't even have the baluns - just a straight wire hooked to Realistic Astronaut-8 and a Hammarlund HQ-100. No powerful radio stations nearby, no industries, It was all good.

My SX-190 has a preselector on it, and it works quite well (although the radio is very sensitive to intermod on 31 meters). My DX-160 has a "trimmer" tuner, and again, it works quite well - in some cases it even has the ability to knock down an adjacent signal enough to render it inconsequential. The Icom's filters are good enough so these kinds of things are not too important, but a preselector might be nice once in awhile. The Icom has a built-in DSP, not like the Timewave's, but sufficient to reduce the background crapola.

I think they are current ununs; they advertise then as being designed to stop stray RF from a transmitter from descending the outer conductor. The person there says that they have no effect on RX, which is odd considering they'd probably like to sell the things - but she is the only one I have spoken with who says that RX is not affected. Many other sell them expressly for this purpose.

I haven't looked at them. Baluns/unun are easy to construct and I actually have found that a 16:1 unun works best on my longwire, so I roll my own on 2.4 inch #43 ferrite. I have also used t-300-2 and t-200-2, powdered iron ... the core size is a big overkill, but I had them around from 1kw+ baluns/ununs I have constructed ...

If you are using a balanced antenna, such as a dipole, you will need a current balun, if you are using an unbalanced antenna, such as a monopole or longwire, you will need a current unun ...

Sorry to see him leave my voice telegraphy machine. He was a breath of fresh air compared to the other obnoxious gasbags that now dominate the medium. Republican he was, however he never was the boorish, overbearing know-it-all, pompous ass who lectured his audience ala Limbaugh, O'Riley, Hannity, Levine, et.al.

I didn't agree with all his politics but his sense of humor is why I listened. I can't recall NOT having laughed out loud while listening to his takes on the issues of the day. Down home country humor and wisdom - just my style. Thanks for two years of entertainment Fred and all the best for you in your future endeavors.

Nurkfred, hey man how is it goin. Things must be pretty cool where you are because you are always a very funny man with funny jokes to tell. Well I am thinking you are only joking when you talk about what you have. I know you don't really mean what you say about the Jerusalem Falafel. You are just trying to be the funny guy in front of your friends. Hey Man I know what that is like cos in the army back home most guys all try the same habit and make funny jokes at the expense of each other, even best friends LOL

I know you will go to the Jerusalem Falafel when/if? you go to Chiang Mai and give unbiased report back here for all to see. Right now it is a funny joke you make, but, thats ok cos like I say it is justt you trying to be funny no? Well Man, lets hope that is all it is and my Israeli brothers and I are watching and looking forward to hearing the real truth about what you think. You dont wanna make the joke then , believe me on this one ;)

peace out ok

Make sure Cuhoo's doggy didn't eat it. And, incidentally Mass. has very good anomalies as far as HF is concerned . Scituate location's conditions are quite favorable and it was a site of a major SW transmitter for many years .

Strangely, the modern bedouins of today have more rights (and modern facilities,supplied by the gov't) than at any time in their history . And if you are refering to the Negev desert, the water pipes were built for supplying the people down there years ago . I've seen it myself ,nearly 40 years ago... unless you are thinking of Yemen or Sudan . Now that is a whole different ballgame...

Water in the occupied territories has been under military control since 1967. The Arab inhabitants are forbidden to dig new wells, while the Jewish settlements may drill for water without restriction. According to World Bank figures, 90% of the water in the West Bank is used for Israelï¿½s benefit and only 10% remains for the Palestinians. The highly complicated water issue has been left to the final-status negotiations.

And the stubborn facts are: A. The current recession (or more properly- a fiasco,collapse,meltdown) officially started in December 2007. B. Our financial 'wizards', in March of 2008, predicted a 'minor' recession. C. Fat Cats devoured the financial institutions in trouble (actually they are vultaires,that will be unfair to the real cats) ,that was immediately after Labor day,2008. D. Elections,November 2008. E. BHO's inauguration, January 2009. I just can't see why BHO caused this this financial crisis, if this is not so, than he must be a Time Traveler. Period .

Well, if you eliminate the so-called "amendments to the Constitution" that were illegally imposed by military force and dictatorship, then no one who is not of entirely European ancestry can possibly be a citizen of the United States.

It doesn't matter at all where he was born.

In real DSP, the audio is processed by a CPU, it is "examined." And, noise is attempted to be "identified."

One example, the human voice has slow rise and fall times, generally, on pronunciation and sound formation, where noise has fast attack and delay speeds.

As patents expire, we may see decent circuitry on even moderately priced and cheap receivers.

ethnic cleansing are 2 words the U.N. and all countries involved use because they don't have the balls to call it what it is. "GENOCIDE".
If that word is used the U.N. must intercede and attack. But the U.N.

It also seems as though the Palestinians are being 'used' by their own leaders and others in the region as pawns in a religious struggle.

So, you are claiming our public servants always tell the whole truth and have nothing to fear? That people will not attempt to bend and twist their words and damage their political carers with twisted words ... strange you should think that, there is enough of a demonstration here of this happening ...

The point was that the Chosen are doing it to everybody. Your interpretation of what is going on in the Negev is grossly distorted.
I'm getting the feeling you will deny any atrocities to your dying day.
zionism is evil. Get used to it.

Israel has demolished thousands of Negev Bedouin homes since the 1970s, and over 200 since 2009. Israeli authorities have demolished many structures in al-Araqib in the past, although never the entire village.

The Land Administration also began spraying villagers' crops with herbicides in 2002 as a mechanism to cause evacuation, a practice deemed illegal by the Israeli Supreme Court in 2007.

"Israel employs systematically discriminatory policies in the Negev," Stork said. "It is tearing down historic Bedouin villages before the courts have even ruled on pending legal claims, and is handing out Bedouin land to allow Jewish farmers to set up ranches."

I can still discern voice easier with my ears. It may help with a data mode. It's fun on WWV to remove the tones.

Here are the requirements:
"Eligibility

Article II, Section 1, Clause 5 of the Constitution sets the principal qualifications one must meet to be eligible to the office of president. A president must:

* be a natural born citizen of the United States;[27]
* be at least thirty-five years old;
* have been a permanent resident in the United States for at least fourteen years.

A person who meets the above qualifications is still disqualified from holding the office of president under any of the following conditions:

* Under the Twenty-second Amendment, no eligible person can be elected president more than twice. The Twenty-second Amendment also specifies that if any eligible person who serves as president or acting president for more than two years of a term for which some other eligible person was elected president, the former can only be elected president once. Scholars disagree whether anyone no longer eligible to be elected president could be elected vice president, pursuant to the qualifications set out under the Twelfth Amendment.[28]

* Under Article I, Section 3, Clause 7, upon conviction in impeachment cases the Senate has the option of disqualifying convicted individuals from holding other federal offices, including the Presidency.[29]

* Under Section 3 of the Fourteenth Amendment, the Constitution prohibits an otherwise eligible person from becoming president if that person swore an oath to support the Constitution, and later rebelled against the United States. However, the Congress, by a two-thirds vote of each house, can remove the disqualification."

I would certainly hope that any and all self-respecting Amerindian's would realize that at least within these borders that our_own_nation is The United States of America.

Wrong. Indian reservations are theoretically sovereign and autonomous.
Little jurisdictions unto themselves where we used to go, as teenagers, to party all night within sight of the city police, who were powerless to mess with us.

Neat thing about the people that believe the story about the Pentagon is you can put 200 of them into a 16 foot hole and they will all disappear before the roof collapses.

The Bush idiots think the Pentagon and the Twin Towers collapsed. If they had any brains they would see one collapsed and the other was blown to bits.

All I can find is polls from years ago on peoples opinion of the NIST report and the "official storyline," even then, 80% - 85% of the population did NOT accept the story ... in your research, let me know if you find a new poll done?

For sale: Sanyo RP-8880 SW portable receiver. This is a rare model with dual antennas. Radio is in working order but the SW section is dead. This is a common problem with this model as the FET is prone to static charges. Instructions on fix are documented online. Asking $125 including shipping obo. Sold as-is for repair or parts.

At one time, in history, there may have been a notable difference between a preselector and a tuner, today, not much ...

... and, a tuner will only do you real good if you have an antenna worth tuning. I have always found that if the signal I am after (frequency/station) is not present, I have had to improve/lengthen/heighten my antenna system. The antenna simply has to be able to "catch" the signal at a sufficient strength ... then you can go about processing it ... there are no magical devices to make up for a poor antenna ...

Propagation Forecast Bulletin 3 ARLP003
From Tad Cook, K7RA

ARLP003 Propagation de K7RA

Average daily sunspot numbers dropped from 50 on the reporting week ending January 5, to 38 on January 6-12, and now 21.3 on January 13-19. Average weekly solar flux over the same three periods dropped from 89.5 to 83.8 to 80.4 over this past week.

The latest solar flux prediction shows a value of 82 for January 21-27 and 88 on January 28-30, followed by 87, 85, 85, 84 and 84 on January 31 through February 4. Geomagnetic predictions have the planetary A index at 5 over the next couple of weeks, except for a value of 7 on January 22 and February 2-4.

Geophysical Institute Prague expects quiet conditions on January 21, quiet to unsettled January 22, and quiet January 23-27.

Carl Luetzelschwab, K9LA, has a propagation column in WorldRadio Online for February 2011 titled "Using Antenna Height As An Aid to Propagation." Of course, the higher the better, right? But Carl calculates the propagation modes over a particular path at a particular date and time, and shows how the antenna radiation pattern at different elevations would affect the signal.

Download the latest issue at http://www.WorldRadiomagazine.com.

Carl used the propagation prediction program VOACAP, and this program as well as W6ELprop and others use the monthly predicted smoothed sunspot number. The latest predicted smoothed numbers for January, February and March 2011 are 39, 43 and 47. They show it increasing four points every month through July, then three points from July to August, and two points per month after that, through June of 2012, followed by one point per month increase through October 2012, then one point every two months until a peak of 90 in 2013 during February through July.

You can download W6ELprop at http://www.qsl.net/w6elprop and see a tutorial in PDF format by K9LA at http://www.arrl.org/files/file/Technology/propagation/W6elprop.pdf. K4LWS has another guide at http://www.datasync.com/mdxa/w6elprop.html.

Information on VOACAP is at http://www.voacap.com, and there is a fascinating online version at http://www.voacap.com/prediction.html in which you can calculate MUF from any point to any other point.

At http://www.voacap.com/coverage.html you set the time, month and year, and it generates a coverage map with your station at the center. Color coding on the map shows the percentage reliability. For location, they have many prefixes selectable in a drop-down menu, or 59 locations in the United States, and 16 across Canada.

As an alternative, you can enter a four or six character grid square. You can find six character grid squares by call sign online at http://www.qrz.com after you create a free account and log in. Then another drop down gives you a wide variety of antenna heights for vertical, dipole, and 3, 5 and 8 element Yagi antennas as well as a theoretical isotropic radiator.

Any of nine HF bands, 80 through 10 meters, are selectable in another drop down. The sunspot number used is the International Sunspot Number, which is lower than the NOAA Boulder number reported in this bulletin. For each month they use the predicted smoothed sunspot number for that month.

This tool is fun to play with! One cool trick is to open the page in two web browsers, set up parameters (for example) to have everything equal except the year, then use Alt-Tab (if you are using Windows) to take you back and forth between the two maps, easily seeing the differences. Or you could do the same thing with a page open in each of multiple tabs in a single browser. I actually found this easier than doing the Alt-Tab selection.

So for instance, I set up five tabs in my browser, one for each month, January through May 2011, and used 10 watts on 10 meters into a dipole at 10 meters high at 2100 UTC. It is fun to click through each tab and see how my 10 meter coverage would change over the end of this winter and through spring.

Strangely, they have separate pages for the 11 meter band for each type, point-to-point, and area coverage. I suppose there are still operators on the Citizens Band who might want this, and for the extreme (and illegal) CBer, you can actually select up to 1500 watts, and an 8 element Yagi at 198 feet! Doing this for March, 2013 sets up an impressive coverage map. I can hear the howl of heterodynes now.

Scott Bidstrup, TI3/W7RI sent in an article about creation of a three dimensional model of the ionosphere that helps explain F layer anomalies in equatorial regions after sunset. Read it at online at http://www.sciencedaily.com/releases/2011/01/110118113138.htm.

Patrick Dyer, WA5IYX of San Antonio, Texas (EL09ql) wrote last week: "Several 6-meter ZL/VK-US events occurred since around Christmas, mostly involving just K6QXY or N5JEH (NM). (Check the lookback/search features on http://www.vhfdx.info/spots, http://www.dxsummit.fi, http://dxworld.com/tvfmlog.html or http://dxworld.com/50prop.html using the ZL/VK calls noted). IA and IL got into the Jan 10-11 event.

"The best guess, as this is near the Es peak in each hemisphere for the Winter and Summer seasons, is Es-Es-F2F2-Es-Es (add another -Es for the W0/W9 path). F2F2 is the chordal hop over the geomagnetic equator where the high ionization levels and effective tilts permit very low angles of incidence (thus giving much higher MUFs than one would expect from a "flat" layer). As most of the Es hops involved are over water there is generally no evidence/warning of any intermediate signals from along that path.

"The Jan 10-11 event, with its concentrated US hotspot footprint in AZ, shows this very well as W0/W9 had Es linking them to/thru AZ. Even during the Cycle 21-23 peak years 6m VK/ZL paths that far to the US N.E. were rare vs. the numerous events to W6, south W7, W5, and south W4."

Peter Laws, N5UWY of Norman, Oklahoma had a response to W1YO's comment in last week's bulletin that "I have been through five solar cycles and this one is not normal."

Peter writes: "With all due respect to W1YO, a sample size of five is hardly enough to make a judgment about what is normal. This cycle may be different from the previous four or five, but we have little evidence to determine if any of them is normal!"

"In all, we only have good data on the last 24 or so cycles and less-accurate data for few more cycles before that."

"But our nearest star is about 4.5 BILLION years old. That's over 400 MILLION solar cycles!"

True enough, but "normal" expresses what you are accustomed to, as well as what expectations are. I think many of us wish that Cycle 19 was normal, as in, not unusual and that Cycle 24 was normal as well.

Speaking of what is normal and what is not, occasionally you can read something in the press quoting someone who seems to be getting it terribly wrong regarding solar activity. There was a "long range weather forecaster" quoted this week in the Australian press who says he uses sunspot activity to make his predictions. He was quoted as saying, "There is a huge amount of solar activity and solar flares at the moment." Don't believe it? Read it at

Oh they can read, for the most part. They just seem to have a filter that sane people don't possess. This filter only lets in information that confirms their Beliefs. Anything else is heresy and must be rejected by the Faithful.

A preselector is a tunable bandpass filter. An antenna tuner goes at the "feed point" and matches the antenna to the transmission line.

The preselector keeps strong unwanted frequencies from forcing your radio into unwanted non-linearity from mixing products (as evidenced by too many stations and stations showing up at the wrong positions on the dial). Before you try a preselector try a PAD first. Even a 75 Ohm CATV type pad can do wonders if you have too much signal.

Wrong. Prior to the 1920's, they were clearly not. They fail the "subject to the jurisdiction" requirement. Why? Because their tribes are soverign nations apart from the United States. After 1927, they may ELECT to be considered citizens but they could also opt out.

"official storyline?" Good but I think I'll go with "Official Cover Story" since that is exactly what it is and while more and more people have their doubt on Bush/Cheney it might be way too late to stop the real perpetuators from running with the ball again.

Lets see.

The Official Cover Story has you believe a 757 disappeared from radar and then disappeared from the yard of the Pentagon.

The Official Cover Story has you believe a 767 rammed into the South Tower despite the fact all the videos of that show something else ramming the South Tower.

The Official Cover Story has you believe that building collapses are identical to building explosions. I wonder if Bush/Cheney could tell people a mushroom cloud miles wide can be caused by a matchstick.

Thanks,

I had seen videos before showing the damage done in the lobby from what was supposed to have happened almost 1/4 mile straight up but I did not remember where I saw them.

I don't need to remember now because your last link shows the damage done to the lobby from subterranean bombs right before the North Tower was rammed.

OK ... it is looking like you have a point to argue ... now, have you been able to compare that baby footprint with one taken of ohblahblah recently ... you realize, we are going to need absolute proof here!

You should forward that link to Rush Limbaugh ... he can probably help you get oblahblah to give up a footprint or two!

Oh, too late, it appears ohblahblah had heard about his kenyan birth certificate on the net. He quickly rushed to tell Michael, she was in the whitehouse kitchen, attempting to open up a sink drain with sulfuric acid, she had spilled some on the floor and ohblahblah stepped in it IN HIS BARE FEET! It seems his feet were burnt so bad that scar tissue will form and negate any attempts to match up his foot print with that on his birth certificate ...

Sorry to have to be the one to give you the bad news ... :-(

The future is now very bleak, rush limbaugh will now be accused of starting a new conspiracy, "NegroidGate!" A race conspiracy against blacks! And, specifically, black presidents!

Who knows where all these new developments will take us, or in what direction?

I mean, in one possible scenario, I see joe biden walking into the presidents office, with FBI AGENTS, and cuffing and hauling out a screaming ohblahblah ... him yelling, "I AM THE PRESIDENT! I AM THE PRESIDENT! ... "

The world pauses in awe and wonder ... wondering what shoe will drop next?

NEWSFLASH!!!

Rumor has it, rush is going to introduce this information on his show, further arguing that ohblahblah is unfit for office of president:
"Using data primarily from the United States and Europe, Jensen and Rushton have estimated the average IQ of blacks/Africans to be around 85; of whites/Europeans to be around 100, and of East Asians to be around 106."

FROME HERE:

Has rush went insane? Does he wish his 50+ million a year income to stop?

Again, we wait with baited breath!

LOL, you sure do love to swallow the kookery, don't you Johnny. There's even less evidence of him being born in Kenya than there is for the "controlled demo" nonsense you're peddling on other groups.

And the only evidence there points to exactly the opposite.

Keep swallowing, and we'll keep laughing.

Oh, I agree, we need the document(s) examined by independent experts and after an investigation, and the matter has been vetted, we will know if biden is president, or not ...

It should be able to all be done rather quickly.

The wars were created by the Neo-Cons for their wet-dream of world domination. And to protect Israel.
The U.S. was just played by guys like Chalabi and the like to help Iran do what the Iran/Iraq War couldn't do.
Yes, the sheeple were manipulated into Wars for Oil.

Well, my family, my friends and my business contacts are about 80/20.
80% want more investigation and questions answered, 20% just are busy with drugs, sex and rock and roll ...

I would think it safe to say, "American Citizens no longer trust their government, about anything, without verification."

They had to work hard at losing the peoples respect, but they have accomplished it with the criminally treasonous actions and robbing from the poor and middle class to keep the rich elites plans in motion.

I have the FRT-7700 by Yaesu. Opinion: if the receiver has a tuned preselector (or octave filters in the front end) it may bring very little improvement, very negligible rise in signal level . On some top grade radios it does almost nothing, was a big surprise when I discovered that years ago. Some really hot receivers can be fed with nano-signals and sound quite bearable in the presence of the most despicable interference even on a short piece of any conductor of 15-20 feet in length . It all boils down that some of them are "more equal than others".

Just wondering- how about an AM broadcast band filter ? Aren't most of the 'bad' signals coming from AM stations being kind of close to your location ?

That certificate was roundly debunked many moons ago as a fake. First off, it was modified to show Obama's birth date attached to a document produced by a government that did not even exist at the time of his birth. The actual owner of the certificate was located through some detective work:

It was not that long ago, I might accept that on face value, and believe it ... not today.

His grandmother claimed he was born in Kenya, the ambassador claims he was born in Kenya and knows it to be fact.

These are not people you generally expect to be mistaken or lie ... and there is the fact obama has spent two million dollars to escape every lawsuit which would make him prove natural born citizenship.

You couple this with the fact that one lawyer who helped him escape proving his citizenship, he appointed a supreme court justice ...

No, something ain't right here ...

That hasty debunking needs re-examined! That is a copy of the original document, and bears the date it was issued, along with the correct date of birth ...

I think the plan now, would be to get a bunch of confusing documents entered out there, then the true ones could easily be hidden, and dismissed, along with real documents.

A real exercise in "3-card monte." A slick street game which has emptied many pockets of the stupid ...

Here is why you can't let the "debunkers" preform "spin doctoring:"
"AP- WASHINGTON D.C. ï¿½ In a move certain to fuel the debate over Obamaï¿½s qualifications for the presidency,the group ï¿½Americans for Freedom of

So, obama was able to convince that college he was of foreign birth, a foreign citizen ... now he wishes to convince Americans he is a natural liar?

I think this is a SERIOUS SMOKING GUN!

this ... and obama has been very successful at blocking that, at least up until now.

I think you can probably see where this is all pointing ...

A resistance, a peaceful revolution is what everyone wants -- honest public servants, from the president on down. However, the forefathers placed a duty on what we must do if, and when, our government ever stops acting in the peoples will and starts following in its' own purposes and goals, or those not in the peoples ... I am sure you have read the documents and know what I speak of ...

This is just becoming a case of watching "a thousand birth certificates given us" and in the end, the real one goes un-noticed ... brilliant strategy, when you think about it ...

However, remember, people who should know, and have reputations to protect, have said obama was born in Kenya, including his own grandmother, and you would think she would have known.

You missed the whole point ... with this kind of "disinformation" masking any similar "real information" you ability to find facts and truth is suddenly consumed in having to search though confusing "false flags." Spin doctoring at its' finest ...

In the end, we are left with at least one credible ambassador from Kenya, and obamas' grandmother stating he was born in Kenya ... yet, we are hunting Hawaii for a birth certificate ... I guess we are calling the ambassador and his grandmother liars?

I am attempting to point out that you can't take anything at face value, there are games within games going on ... obama didn't spend two million dollars fighting having these things examined in great detail for no reason whatsoever ... that is insane, no prudent man would do that.

There is something here, something which we need to know ... we have the right to know whether our president is a crook or not, even nixon admitted that, and he was a crook!

This all is far from "debunked!"

JS

That is why spending the time and effort on a Good Shortwave Radio Listening [SWL] Antenna and a very good Ground System that is 'Matched'* to Feed-in-Line usually provides the Best Results for SWL'ers with better preforming SWL [HF] Radio/Receivers.

* Using the right type of Matching Transformer : 16:1, 9:1, 4:1, 1:1 for your Antenna and Radio
'combo'.

Give the Receiver what it wants {prefers}
A Good Quality Signal -with- Very Little Noise

-non-technical-generalization-
Think of the External {Outside} Remotely Located Matching Transformer as the "Summing Point" for Signal-&-Noise that is between the Antenna and Ground.

* On the Antenna-to-Ground-Side of the Matching Transformer the Signal-&-Noise both exist; the Signal Flows to Ground and to an equal of greater extent the Noise is also shunted to Ground {Grounded}

* On the Coax Cable-Side of the Matching Transformer the the Inducted Signal Flow to Ground is picked-up and sent on to the Radio/Receiver.

-non-technical-generalization-
Again the Matching Transformer is mounted on a good earthen 8-Ft. Ground Rod that is External {Outside the House} and Remotely Located {Removed from the House by 5~10~20~40 Feet Putting both the Antenna and Ground out beyond the RF Envelop of the House itself. {Lower Noise}

-non-technical-generalization-
Contrast this to having the Antenna and Ground both meeting at the back of the Radio/Receiver in the Radio Shack Room in the House; and immersed-in and surrounded-by the RF Envelop of the House itself. {Higher Noise} Plus this moves the Signal-&-Noise "Summing Point" that is between the Antenna and Ground
-to- The Back of the Radio {Inside-the-Radio}.

The "Correct Way" to Install a Longwire Antenna and Balun -by- Wellbrook
http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.shortwave/msg/db8f001452a34724
Using The Far-End Feed-Point Concept
http://www.wellbrook.uk.com/longwire.html
A key-point that Wellbrook makes is the Five Metre {~16 Feet} "Noise Zone" that http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.shortwave/msg/27ca62e0c0e838ea exists around a House and getting the Wire Antenna Element away {out} from this area.
http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.shortwave/msg/735cc467b35a70d5
Putting an Antenna Switch Box, Pre-Selector, Tuner etc 'in-line' between the Antenna and Radio is just one more thing to go wrong.
-adds- More Contacts & More Switches
-result- Less Signal & More Noise

Keep It As Simple as Necessary :
Antenna & Ground +
Matching Transformer & Coax Cable +
Radio/Receiver =
Shortwave Radio Listening [SWL]
- On some top grade radios it does almost nothing,
- was a big surprise when I discovered that years ago.
- Some really hot receivers can be fed with nano-signals
- and sound quite bearable in the presence of the most
- despicable interference even on a short piece of any
- conductor of 15-20 feet in length .
- It all boils down that some of them are "more equal
- than others".

Liberty Net: January 15, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/01/liberty-net-january-15-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

CRUSHED BY MANY FEET of snow this severe New Jersey winter, N2IRJï¿½s low-noise receiving antenna nevertheless continues to perform, bringing us this weekï¿½s Liberty Net recording with almost perfect reception despite variable ï¿½ and at times very long ï¿½ skip, and even a few attempts at malicious interference.

Hereï¿½s a small sample of the issues discussed this time on amateur radioï¿½s most historic discussion net:

ï¿½ The mortgage crisis that crashed the economy is one of the most gigantic frauds in human history. Why is it, then, that almost no one amongst the fraudsters has gone to jail? (40 minutes)

ï¿½ A ï¿½penny post cardï¿½ is now 28 cents; illustrating how, in the lifetime of one Liberty Net participant, American currency has lost about 97% of its value. Since both political parties exist by buying the votes of special interest groups with debt-money created out of nothing, the continued destruction of the peopleï¿½s savings, and our role as debt-slaves to the banks, will continue until a revolutionary change takes place. (45 minutes)

ï¿½ The supposedly ï¿½consumer friendlyï¿½ new Federal Reserve credit agency is really designed, not to protect us, but to make us do exactly what the bankers want us to do ï¿½ go ever deeper into debt. (1 hour 9 minutes)

ï¿½ Under the coming ï¿½health careï¿½ dictatorship, the government will have ï¿½real time accessï¿½ to every cent that is in your bank deposits ï¿½ including the ability to ï¿½make paymentsï¿½ (read: steal) from your accounts. (1 hour 15 minutes)

ï¿½ Glenn Beck is a very clever disinformation agent, who says many things that patriots want to hear ï¿½ and who then provides conclusions and solutions that are pure Murdochian Zionist poison. Now Beck is promoting a book called 1421, a Communist-funded tome which claims that the Chinese discovered America prior to the Europeans, and another by the same author, 1434, which claims that the Chinese created the European Renaissance. Both are intended to soften us up for increased Chinese rule over our society. (1 hour 30 minutes)

ï¿½ It is shameful for our country that a Communist criminal and sexual degenerate like Martin Luther King has his own national holiday. (1 hour 59 minutes)

ï¿½ States and localities are getting ever more desperate to get tax money out of us; and some now make no allowance whatsoever for taxes paid to other entities. So it is now entirely possible ï¿½ and ï¿½legal,ï¿½ assuming you still believe the present System itself is legal ï¿½ for you, in any given year, to ï¿½oweï¿½ more than 100% of your income as taxes. (2 hours 30 minutes)

ï¿½ Itï¿½s not surprising that Afghans and Iraqis being trained by US soldiers turn on our men and kill them at times. After all, we aggressively invaded their countries without valid reason, killed hundreds of thousands of innocents, and imposed vicious, corrupt puppet governments on them. (3 hours 6 minutes)

ï¿½ We need a new genre of action fiction ï¿½ instead of Bruce Willis avenging the death of his family at the hands of evil ï¿½Nazisï¿½ and ï¿½Arab terrorists,ï¿½ we need an action hero who goes after the banksters and the oligarchs who are the real-life bad guys who have stolen our wealth and our future. (3 hours 20 minutes)

Remember that you can receive the Liberty Net on the nearest clear frequency to 3950 kHz every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time, or listen live on the Internet via N2SAG or N2IRJ, or listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week.

Thanks to W1WCR for running the Liberty Net, and thanks to N2IRJ and N2SAG for giving the net a great online presence.

I think he realized years ago that he and Comcast would never be sympatico. He basically hasn't given a shit for a while. Fox should hire him to prove that they are really fair and balanced. He seems a little pompous, but he's on opposite O'reilly so who'd notice? I will miss the Beethoven.

If this is an example of how your minds work no thanks. You can still mail shit for a penny; it just as to be bulk mail, written off by the corporation, and subsidized by the taxpayers 2 ways; increased First Class postage, and we have to make up the slack in the general fund for the corporation's write-off.

This is why the airwaves belong to everyone. If Company X advertises on Limbaugh and writes-off the commercials as a business expense, and I have to pay more taxes to make up the difference, I am subsidizing Rush Limbaugh. Same as tax money for abortions I say!

We always post links.

YOU don't post links to any actual EVIDENCE. You merely post kooklinks to ASSERTIONS. There is no such thing as PROOF BY MERE ASSERTION, you fuckin' moron.

You can't just post a link to your delusional nutbags saying "WTC was brought down by silent and invisible explosives in complete denial of all laws of physics and it fell at free fall speed even though all the debris falling next to it reached the ground in half the time... now prove me wrong!"

Gee, why would we ever question the existence of a Hawaiian birth certificate ... his grandmother says he was born in Kenya, the ambassador says he was born in Kenya ... no one can find a Hawaiian birth certificate ... some are claiming the existence of a Kenyan birth certificate ... tons of false birth certificates are being released to confuse the issue ...

Now, why would we think that was staged, or that obama was born in Kenya ... really strange yanno'?

I mean, how could anyone ever suspect a conspiracy is afoot?

Yes, that's what I thought, and after a few moment's consideration, exactly how I would have described the difference between the two.

I have quite a few gadgets assembled to reduce signal strength - three attenuator levels and three different gain controls. These do help, but again, I think my main problem is environmental noise.

I actually have a high-pass PAR filter that cuts MW by a lot of dB. I have it engaged all the time. It still does not do the complete job, which supports Peter's hypothesis that somewhere, metal surfaces in contact are rectifying a signal when they shouldn't be.

Yes, but is it really one or the other, and somebody is being loose

Well, until recently, I have never seen preselector used to describe a filter ... in the SW group, there is often mistakes in terminology ... you kinda of have to deduce what the person is talking about by using the rest of the sentence also.

Yes, there are Korean numbers stations.

North Korea stopped numbers transmissions on SW around 2000, however they continue limited activity on MW and VHF.

South Korea has been continuously active with numbers on SW since at least as far back as the mid 1970's. Currently V24 and M94 are the only two SK stations I am aware of, and likely the only ones that keep a regular schedule if there are others.

V24 and M94 both underwent a large shift in habits at the first of this year, as they also did the first of last year. As of yet the new schedule has not been determined, but is in process.

The numbers station page you pointed to in another post (http://token_radio.home.mchsi.com/numbers_station_v24.htm) contained a schedule that was accurate at the end of the year, but is only about 50% right now. V24 activated at least three frequencies that had not been in use for a year.

The 4900 kHz freq you quoted is indeed currently used by V24, however the time slot you mentioned has never been noted in over 30 years. V24 and M94 have only been seen between 1200 and 1700 UTC. This makes me doubt that what you heard was actually V24.

Although CA has been the most successful place to report V24 and M94 (http://www.spynumbers.com/numbersDB/dbSearchEntry.php3 and use the search feature, set dates from 1982 to current, put V24 in the ENIGMA block, you will find most reports are from CA) it is very unlikely that you would have propagation from Korea to you on that freq at 0920 UTC. Could you have gotten the time UTC wrong?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (UPI) -- U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas failed to report nearly $700,000 his wife earned on financial disclosure forms, a watchdog group alleges.

Common Cause said Virginia Thomas earned more than $680,000 from the Heritage Foundation, a conservative think tank, between 2003 and 2007, the Los Angeles Times reported.

The justice failed to note the income in his Supreme Court financial disclosure forms for those years, checking a box labeled "none" where "spousal non-investment income" would be disclosed, Common Cause alleged.

Federal judges are required to disclose the source of spousal income.

"It wasn't a miscalculation; he simply omitted his wife's source of income for six years, which is a rather dramatic omission," said Stephen Gillers, a professor at New York University School of Law. "It could not have been an oversight."

Is there a website when obama can design and print himself out a

I think he needs it. Probably easier to argue the hawaiian one is real

MFJ makes two items that they describe specifically as preselectors, the 1046 and 1048 - one "passive" and one powered. The passive has fewer parts, but the instructions at the MFJ site blithely suggest that both do a great job. They advertise the 956 as a tuner.

We know about stealth planes. Whatever penetrated the South Tower travelled pretty fast and made a very strong explosion, I am a witness of it. I didn't want to see the collapse that day, it was too much just watch a dozen humans jump from the upper floors...And the Smoke was there for at least a month, if not longer. No, it wasn't mushroom-shaped, though some hoped (?!) it resembled it...

From what I gather, the very early people inhabiting the area of what is today called the Holy Land were called the Natufians . Around 10-12 000 BC . The Hebrews didn't arrive till 1476 BC or very close to that date. Oh, by the way, I never liked pure forms of nationalism of ANY color, in case you may think otherwise . And I do have tons of respect for the Bedouins (the Real camel-jockeys) . Who else,but them,could have shown Moses the right path in the Sinai Desert- after all he was lost over there for 40 years !!!

Is that legal. That's an aeronautical frequency isn't it?

Not certain about the aeronautical, but an older CFL shows some RTTY on the freq, which I did hear some of yesterday.

As to the legality, the guy is running a pirate station after all.

Tuner is used more generically here. A preselector is a type of tuner.

If you have a 30 turn coil, a 365 mfd variable capacitor, and a couple clip leads you can build a "L" matcher, that will tune just about anything. Another junk pile solution...

MMTTY is a great program -- for radio teletype.

MMSSTV is a great program -- for slow scan TV

Unfortunately, HF fax is NOT slow scan.

Probably 15 or more years ago, I purchased a software and hardware interface package for HF fax. The good news is, it worked fairly well for its time. The bad news is, I can't find it, haven't seen it in years and don't remember the name of the provider.

Also, HF fax is a relatively dead horse. IIRC, there are very few HF fax stations that are on the air these days.

To summarize...

1) MMTTY and MMSSTV do not decode HF fax.

2) I would suggest doing a web search for "hf fax" or "hf fax software" or variations thereof and see if anything turns up.

Good luck with your quest and let us know how the hunt turns out.

Generally I have been my understanding that a so-called modern day SWL type of Antenna "Tuner" with an SO-239

a Tunable Circuit to Continuously 'Match' the Feed-in-Line with the SWL Antenna at its End : Over a broad range of

IMHO : If you have a Matching Transformer [Balun/UnUn] installed at the Far-End of the Feed-in-Line; between the Antenna-&-Ground feeding into the Coax Cable these Antenna L&C "Match" Tuners seem to have less effect.

Where-As so-called modern day SWL type of Pre-Selector

Every human with any nigger experience saw this coming. Sympathy for Jew Gifford and the Chimp in Chief rating of gone up. Probably a false flag shooting. Backdoor dealings, stealing, threats, it's the nigger way. Now that the Washington pussies have a yard ape in office pushing buttons and backhanding members of Congress they don't know what to think. Human beings discuss problems, niggers simply chimpout and throw a fit. The ONLY way to deal with a nigger in full chimpout is with a rap to the skull OR let the beast's temper tantrum run it's course. Maybe Rahm Emanuel will drop a plate of dead babies (his usual morning breakfast) on the nigger's head and calm him down but I doubt it. I think the Senate is sackless, Congress is ghost-white scared, and everyone is waiting to see what the ape will destroy next.

I am sooooo glad we repealed Obamacare., there wouldnt of been anything left to destroy once this bill takes hold. We'll end up paying over 70% of our income in taxes, fees, and other "required" payments to the government while crackheads, welfare niggers, and trailer trash meth heads sit around waiting for their next 'gubment' check.

This thing works great with a "matched pair" of verticals 50' apart. I am just nulling out a single offender, my neighbor's RV battery charger.

I could never get it to "work" using random wires. Martin Jue I love you. Anything to avoid a confrontation with neighbors. The 50' fiberglass pole needs all the friends it can get.

There is a requirement in the Constitution that a president be a natural born citizen of the USA -- that means born within the borders of the USA. You can only prove this with a birth certificate.

If "they" allowed obama to enter office without confirming that he was eligible, "they" are criminally negligent in their dutys and oaths to uphold the Constitution and need to be gone with obama.

This isn't rocket science ... it's the law!

THIS:
"Biographical and family information, 1986, 1989-2000 (bulk 1995-2000), 0.1 cubic ft.
Records are speeches, newspaper clippings, magazine articles, biographical sketches, correspondence, memos, lists, a transcript, a birth certificate, and introductions, concerning Texas Governor George W. Bush. Materials, dating 1986, 1989-2000, with the bulk dating 1995-2000, were gathered by the Governor's Press Office to prepare biographical sketches, introductions to speeches, and responses to correspondents. A wide variety of information about Bush is contained in these files, including a chronology of events in his life, clothing sizes, accomplishments, residences, a recounting of his military service by a fellow National Guardsman, favorite things, his children's education, and his testimony of faith. A small amount of material concerns Barbara Bush and Jeb Bush, mother and brother to the governor.
Correspondents include publishers, students, associations, family, friends, and members of the public.
Arrangement
These records are arranged in the order in which they were received.
Restrictions on Access
Because of the possibility that portions of these records fall under Public Information Act exceptions including, but not limited to email addresses (552.137) and privacy (552.101), an archivist must review these records before they can be accessed for research. The records may be requested for research under the provisions of the Public Information Act (V.T.C.A., Government Code, Chapter 552). The researcher may request an interview with an archivist or submit a request by mail, fax, or email including enough description and detail about the information requested to enable the archivist to accurately identify and locate the information requested. If our review reveals information that may be excepted by the Public Information Act, we are obligated to seek an open records decision from the Attorney General on whether the records can be released. The Public Information Act allows the Archives ten working days after receiving a request to make this determination. The Attorney General has 45 working days to render a decision. Alternately, the Archives can inform you of the nature of the potentially excepted information and if you agree, that information can be redacted or removed and you can access the remainder of the records.

Restrictions on Use
Most records created by Texas state agencies are not copyrighted and may be freely used in any way. State records also include materials received by, not created by, state agencies. Copyright remains with the creator. The researcher is responsible for complying with U.S. Copyright Law (Title 17 U.S.C.)."

Actually, this is all common sense ...

If obama is ashamed of his past and has to hide it, we probably SHOULD BE TOO! Worse than that, we don't want him as a president.

If I had an employee who had to hide his past this deeply, I would not have hired him to begin with! DUH!

There is an original record. That has been certified by the state and they produced a document to that effect. That is all the proof I needed to get a passport. Jerome Corsi I'm sure is free to finance a manual search of 50 year old records by bonded personnel, but the you'd have to take their word for it.

The 1026 is an excellent unit. I've actually had pretty good luck two matched verts should give a gangbusters combo.

led a nomadic lifestyle . And practically all the settled people had to fight them off ; wars and civilization (as we know) developed simultaneously .

Even as ObaMa0 Tse Dung maintains close to 50,000 troops in Iraq and movement in America continues to shrink.

War, it seems, is a bipartisan venture, which is reflected by the

That's certainly false.

1) Modern Jews have a pretty weak claim to be "the same people" as the ancient Hebrews, and, even if they were

2) If you give any credence at all to the words in their supposed holy books, they had to "slay" one Hell of a lot of men, women, and children before they wrested the "promised land" away from its rightful owners.

NUGENT: It is us
We're the ones who allowed anti-Americans to take over America

Barack Hussein Obama did not sneak into power. An army of clueless, disconnected, ignorant Americans invited him to bring his Marxist, glaringly anti-American jihad into our lives.
We all saw it coming, but political correctness caused most of us to clam up in the ridiculous mindset that it was more important to avoid hurting feelings than to stand up for what we knew in our hearts was being trampled underfoot.
The Tea Party is a better-late-than-never step in the right direction back to the glorious "we the people" experiment in self-government, but as far as I'm concerned, we haven't begun to turn up the heat nearly enough quite yet.
Will we have learned our lesson that we the people have a daily, moral responsibility to be suspicious of everyone in government and the media and watchdog them properly from now on? Will we finally never forget? Will we finally say never again and mean it?

Will we finally use the incredible freedoms as provided by the sacrifices of our amazing warrior heroes of the U.S. military to be sure this insanity can never happen again? Can we show at least that basic respect for the privilege of being American and how we got here?

MFJ-1026 Noise Cancelling Signal Enhancer
http://www.universal-radio.com/CATALOG/preamps/3541.html
http://www.universal-radio.com/CATALOG/preamps/3542rear.html

The Small Whip Antenna for 'Inside' Noise Sources is OK.

For "Outside" Noise Sources try a 'Snake' Antenna made of 50 Feet of Coax Cable with 8~12 Feet of Uncovered Coax at the End.

Make the 'Snake' Antenna from some old Coax Cable that has a PL-259 Plug on at least one End.

Run the 'Snake' Antenna from the MFJ-1026 outside to where it can be Rigged as a Vertical Antenna from the Ground to an Upper Support {Tree Limb?}.
* Secure both Ends of the Vertical Section.
* Place 3 Clamp-On Ferrite Cores about an Inch or two apart at the bottom of the Vertial Section.
* The Vertical Section should be at least 5 Feet clear of all surrounding things {10 Feet would be better}.

Back in the 60s' I could hook up a 50' ft antenna ~20 ft in the air, well insulated, well fed, well matched, well tuned and tune in the whole world ...

Today, it is not that simple ... and you do need, band pass, band stop, attenuators, best possible antennas, baluns/ununs, feedlines, etc.

It is real "noise soup" out there, unless you can still afford the luxury of a remote location ...

When I look at a portable, with a pull up whip, I start thinking about about real remote locations, like "Mosquito Lakes", up hwy 4, high in the Sierra Mountains, 11,500 ft elevation, at my cabin, where it preforms adequately (well, I still have a longwire 50 ft in the air!)

"Noise antenna" means it gathers an unwanted signal so I can invert polarity and subtract that signal from the main antenna. I can also steer the null, and/or a lobe as required.

I saw Cindy Sheehan at the anti-war rally in San Francisco in 2008.
The anti-war movement was always more of an anti-Bush movement, and collapsed once Bush's wars became Obama's wars, causing Democrat Party agitprops to abandon it.

The anti-war movement still exists in a much smaller form, now comprised almost entirely of radical leftists, communists, and anarchists -- all of whom are opposed to the Democrat Party. The Democrats are perceived as having aided and abetted Bush's crimes, especially after Nancy Pelosi blocked all attempts to introduce an impeachment resolution. This inspired Cindy Sheehan to run against her in 2008, winning an impressive 17% of the vote compared to only 9% for the Republican challenger.

Whether one agrees with her or not, Sheehan must be admired for refusing to abandon her principles for political convenience. It would be easy for her to join the ranks of Obamatards and forget all about the war she once protested against, but unlike Obamatards, she truly opposes the war. The war was wrong when Emperor Bush waged it, and it is wrong now that Chairman Obama is waging it.

This is why I object when Democrats are described as "leftists," since real leftists stand by their principles no matter what. To distinguish between the two, I use the term "leftard" to describe Democrats. A leftard has no principles, he simply bleats empty slogans fed to him by the Party. A leftard does not think about what he is supporting or opposing, which is why he is able to condemn Bush's war while praising Obama's war. Other issues leftards flipflop on include Guantanamo and warrantless wiretapping. Real leftists still oppose all these things, while leftards suffer from collective amnesia and forget that they once opposed these abuses of power.

"The intention was to make speech, and especially speech on any subject not ideologically neutral, as nearly as possible independent of consciousness. For the purposes of everyday life it was no doubt necessary, or sometimes necessary, to reflect before speaking, but a Party member called upon to make a political or ethical judgement should be able to spray forth the correct opinions as automatically as a machine gun spraying forth bullets."

Here are the Constitution requirements, as given by the consitution:
"Age and Citizenship requirements - US Constitution, Article II, Section 1

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States, at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States."

Now, what do you wish to add to that?

Haven't you documented that, well, here in the newsgroup?

1) Only the pure-blood modern Samaritans can claim today to be the real descendants . They are not a very healthy tribe, as a matter of fact . In-breeding is extremely bad in any species. 2) I usually don't like quoting Schicklegruber, but this is precisely how the Canaanites were defeated . Back then as well as today only the strongest and superior nations gain respect of the world . . .

Not totally accurate. To make a Constitutional amendment, you need a 2/3 majority in both houses of congress, and THEN it must be ratified by 3/4 of the state legislatures. Unless those state legislatures decide to do a plebiscite, there is no direct voter involvement in the process. Something like Proposition 8 in California cannot happen with the US Constitution.

I already did. Tell you what, ask your local college history/political/legal scholar if that is correct ... they will set you straight.

You can call the college, ask the professors hours and office number,
and ask them right from your house.

Anyone who might be swayed by your disinformation, lies, might want to do that for themselves ...

Sheesh, silly name-calling. And I thought better of you.

No, the law is not kaput. The brains of the remaining Americans may be, however.

What is kaput -- or ought to be, if all was right with the world and Americans had brains and spines -- is all laws made pursuant, even subsequent, to the pretended 14th amendment, which was imposed by raw military force and never adopted legally. See

http://www.barefootsworld.net/14uncon.html

for just a tiny glimpse of the criminal forcing of this pretended amendment on America; there's much more than this article hints at, too.

With all good wishes,

Kevin, WB4AIO.

Let me go further, would that not be government without representation (of/for the people,) and the whole reason we fought the british rulers, kings/queens, and the whole revolution was about. Sorry, it has not been repealed. The House of Representatives voted for repeal, however, the Senate would have to do so as well (not likely) and then the President would have to sign it (about as likely as snow in hell). If by some long shot miracle the bill made it through the Senate, it would be vetoed, and there is not a 2/3 majority in either house to overturn a veto.

Are you a damn fool? Call tomorrow and repair your ignorance. People engage in American History classes already know, you need to find out.
If you don't have time for a class, the instructor at any college will

There are a whole bunch of "natural born citizens" born overseas.

Because they know that if they read past the part they like the

Fool, they didn't say "natural births!" they said "NATURAL BORN."

Since there was nothing but natural births back then, it is more than obvious they meant "NATURAL BORN CITIZEN" as opposed to "FOREIGN BORN CITIZEN."

The first doesn't need to seek citizenship, he/she already has it. The FOREIGN BORN CITIZEN has to petition and be granted citizenship ... DUH!

Might I point out to you, it would be TREASONOUS not for our public servants to represent the people?

Regards,
JS

Our representatives have done little in the history of the country to do the will of the voters. We have to remember that our form of government is not the will of the majority, but a way to protect us from the tyranny of the majority.

The majority of citizens supported the ERA. It was never ratified by the states. AFAIK, there was NOT widespread public support for prohibition, nor for presidential term limits, yet those amendments were both ratified by the state legislatures.

Try to maintain focus, I know your mental condition makes that difficult, so, one more time, obama has on USA birth certificate, obama has no other birth certificate showing American birth ... obama was born in Kenya, Africa ...

True. Many children are born here in Korea of American parents and they are full natural born US citizens fully able to run for and become POTUS.
Anyone going to tell our troops that have their kids overseas that those kids are second or third class citizens?

THEN:
"When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature entitle them, a decent respect for the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all Men and Women were created equal, that they are naturally endowed with certain unalienable rights, rights which have been deliberately and repeatedly ignored, eroded, even destroyed. To re-secure these rights that our forefathers toiled so hard to create and support, we again state that governments are created for the people and solely by the consent of the people so governed. Whenever, such as now, a form of government has become destructive to these ends, it is OUR RIGHT as citizens, to alter and/or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on the original ideals and ideas from whence this country was first imagined, then created through sweat, education, imagination, experience, tears, and toil. Likewise, it becomes our duty as citizens to strive to improve upon that foundation, eradicating the biases based on differences of sex, culture, religion, skin color, nationality, and other individual and groups traits that make individuals who and what they are. ... "

And, you know the rest of the story ...

If what you say is correct ... and what I am seeing is correct ... it is time ...

God, Gold, Guns, Food, Shelter, Medical, etc. and let us prepare for our future ... cowards, queers and lackeys need not apply ...

Anyone going to tell me that the forefathers got it wrong? Anyone living in the United States who had the best colleges, best roads, best autos, best educations, best lifes of anyone in the world going to tell me that the forefathers had it wrong. That this should have been changed?

Anyone telling me that, simply tells me they are an idiot. We don't need to change the Constitution, the rest of the world needs to adopt our constitution and have what we have had ...

Well, the queers, fruitcakes, and nuts that manage to get public office need to be hung on the steps of their public offices, and I cite this as proof:

"God forbid we should ever be twenty years without such a rebellion.
The people cannot be all, and always, well informed. The part which is wrong will be discontented, in proportion to the importance of the facts they misconceive. If they remain quiet under such misconceptions, it is lethargy, the forerunner of death to the public liberty. ...
And what country can preserve its liberties, if its rulers are not warned from time to time, that this people preserve the spirit of resistance? Let them take arms. The remedy is to set them right as to the facts, pardon and pacify them. What signify a few lives lost in a century or two? The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time, with the blood of patriots and tyrants.
It is its natural manure." -- Thomas Jefferson

It is time to refresh that tree of liberty ... but then, what have I been saying?

Funny,the subject came up at this time! Once upon a time, the Spaniards which settled in the New World, actually sent their pregnant wives back to Spain for that same reason . Due to their law children born in the colonies (outside of Europe) were NOT considered equal to those born in Europe . They had a very different status-the so-called Creoles . The more things change, the more they remain the same.

You may know this but it's worth noting that HF-FAX and WEFAX (satellite) are very different.
Just as SSTV (amateur radio) and HF-FAX are completely different.

Ah! that's bad luck you lost Burr. The Afrikaners here in the apartheid years had the "pencil test" to see whether you were classified white or black. If the official put the pencil in your hair and it fell out, then you were classified white. If the pencil stuck you were classified black.

We passed "peace through strength" in the '60s and just kept going. Standing armies are Unamerican, as are foreign military posts. Fix the world with money, not bombs.

If we used the 700 billion dollars we spend every year on "defense" to bribe people to like us, we'd have many billions left over and way less animosity.

Probably the only way to get a QSL from some countries in Africa.

I looked at the exchange rate. It costs that Czech amateur $1.27 US to send out every QSL card. So asking for $2 postage is no problem. Now there are some hams trying to make money off postage. One recent expedition from Germany was requesting $5 US for a QSL card.

Must not be a very GOOD attorney, then. A "legal" name change, with court paperwork, is a formality, and is in truth not a requirement. Anyone can change their name by usage only. i.e. you can simply start using a different name in daily use. The only caveat is that it cannot be done for purposes of furtherance of a crime.

You cannot commit a crime and use a false name ...

When barry soetoro was serving as a senator, it was a crime to do so with a false name, Berg discusses this in the videos. This means he has to give back the money, expenses, etc. that he received, to the tax payers, it is well over a million dollars ... difficult to actually determine with what is available, but I would put it at between 1.5 to 2 million dollars.

I once read somewhere the Born in Kenya! JIHAD MARXIST has never been to Connecticut before.Why does he have a Connecticut Social Security card?

G.H.W.Bush from Connecticut/(perhaps really from Germany?) Connecticut and Hawaii/(Hawaii NO birth certificate,,,, Hawaii and Connecticut/(Connecticut Fraud Social Security card,,,, what's up with that?
Something STRANGE about Hawaii and Connecticut!

I wouldn't Trust Connecticut (or Hawaii either) to Verify Anything, especially anything for me!

So, assuming the Born in Kenya! JIHAD MARXIST does have a real birth certificate, would it be over there in Mombasa? Maybe not,,,, if they decide to Bribe the Born in Kenya! JIHAD MARXIST.

BAD,

But when you are asked the Question of What Is Your Rightful Full and Complete Legal Name . . .
You Only Have One : The Original Name On Your

So "Marion Mitchell Morrison" was a 'mary' : Until
"MMM" Legally Changed His Name to . . . .

Each nation that raises a large military usually tries to find a way to justify it. We'd hate to waste money, wouldn't we? So waste a few lives instead.

Nearly ALL Founding Fathers came from very wealthy plantantion/banking/trading well-to-do families . Also,the actual political term 'left' started in France in 1789 . The 'Jacobins and the Montagards' . USA also stand :Union of South Africa . And they definitily DIDN'T have any left-wingers in charge till about 20 years ago . For real .

If I'm not mistaken, Sanyo and some other well known brands had massive defects with the first RF stage transistors (poor Hfe) . How

? When Did Barack Hussein Obama II [Jr.] legally become "Barry Soetoro" ?

-and- ? When did "Barry Soetoro" legally once again become Barack Hussein Obama II [Jr.] ?

The RUMORS are now that "BO" {Stinky} registered at Occidental College in California as "Barry Soetoro"
-now-you-know-why-'bo'-had-those-records-sealed-

This same "Barry Soetoro" was a 'Foreign Student' from Indonesia using an Indonesian Passport; and was after "BO" had turned Age 18.

Next "Barry Soetoro" [BO] Traveled to Pakistan in 1981
{Age 20} on an Indonesian Passport using that name.

That then brings up the ?Question? of . . .
? What Name did "Barry Soetoro" -aka- Barack Obama [BO] use when he applied to and was accepted into Columbia University in NYC ?

-now-you-know-why-'bo'-had-those-records-sealed-

What Will Be Done to Expose the real Barack Hussein Obama II [Jr.] {Barry Soetoro} in the US Presidential Election Campaign of 2012.

Each State Election Board Will Be Challenged To Ascertain that Barack Hussein Obama II [Jr.] meets
the Legal US Constitutional Requirements to in-fact Run for the US Presidency.
-the-birthers-have 50-chances-to-disqualify-bho-
=and=only=have=to=win=in=one=state=

The Second Bite At The Apple :
The Democrat Convention Will Be Challenged To Ascertain that Barack Hussein Obama II [Jr.] meets
the Legal US Constitutional Requirements to in-fact Run for the US Presidency.

The Third Bite At The Apple :
The Joint Session of the US Congress to Count the Electoral College Votes Will Be Challenged To Ascertain that Barack Hussein Obama II [Jr.] meets
the Legal US Constitutional Requirements to in-fact Run for the US Presidency.
-remember-now-the-republicans-control-the-us-house-

So... considering all the 'Challenges' ahead for "BO" imho Prez "BO" will not seek a second term and -if-
"BO" Does He Will Fail to become the Elected.

Prez "BO" {Obama} please please please DUMP

Key word is 'impressive' . From what I gather (it has been almost 30 years since) it has two IF bandwiths . Not heavy at all, despite it's size (very big) . As far as I know, this was their flagship portable in the early 80's !

Not down here. Only upstate,in places like Watertown or Plattsburg it gets so frigid . Nothing new to me . Back 'over there', around '70 or '71 we had 40 below one night . No casualties whatsoever . Just forces

There's a structural difference between curly hair (a common European type) and kinky hair (the type found among sub-Saharan Africans). So the test was flawed and, quite possibly, you should have won.

I am not sure that there's any country where curly hair is in the majority, however.

With every good wish,

Kevin.

Old lady DXer,

An older lady took time from her Grundig 800 and was somewhat lonely and decided she needed a pet to keep her company. So, off to the pet shop she went. She searched and searched. None of the pets seemed to catch her interest, except this ugly frog. As she walked by the jar he was in, she looked and he winked at her.

He whispered, 'I'M SO LONELY, TOO. BUY ME AND TAKE ME HOME.. YOU WON'T EVER BE SORRY.'

The old lady figured, what the heck! She hadn't found anything else. So, she bought the frog. She placed him in the car on the front seat beside her. As she was slowly driving down the road, the frog whispered to her "KISS ME AND YOU WON'T BE SORRY"..!

So! The old lady figured, WHAT THE HECK, and kissed the frog.

IMMEDIATELY the frog turned into an absolutely gorgeous, sexy, young, handsome prince.

THE PRINCE THEN RETURNED THE OLD LADY'S KISS.

SUDDENLY THE OLD LADY FELT HERSELF TRANSFORMING FROM HIS KISS. NOW, CAN YOU GUESS WHAT THE OLD LADY TURNED INTO?

COME ON GUESS!

Ha; very funny.

Actually, 1878 was a time when science and truth were on the ascendant and blind faith was declining (though still, unfortunately, dominant among the simple folk). Now blind faith (of both the "conservative" religious type and the "liberal" "human equality" type) is gaining again, unfortunately.

I don't say that the Washington regime is illegal because of any nostalgia, however. I just say it because it's true.

It is the same with the abundantly evident fact that the human races are unequal. It's simply true. Uttering that truth violates the taboos of the mindless religions and quasi-religions that now prevail, of course. That just makes it especially important to say it.

The current American empire is evil and deserves to be mocked and shown up for what it is -- an illegal, murderous regime that is actually the _enemy_ of the real America.

And the religion of racial equality also deserves to be mocked for the dangerous, destructive (of all races), and empire-serving lie that it is.

As for "a dark place," everyone who knows me personally, from my parents to my kids to my sweet wonderful girlfriend, knows that I am quite the opposite of that. I'm the kind of guy that -- despite what the bastards have done to me, and they've tried plenty -- loves Nature, dances spontaneously, and often makes others laugh at the follies of this world.

All the best,

Kevin.

I don't think anyone outside the immediate area would care tremendously if one Semitic tribe (the Jews or the Syrians or the Iraqis or whoever) fought and conquered other Semitic tribes to gain some woebegone Middle Eastern real estate. It's been happening for millennia.

But when that one particular Semitic tribe has an international organization that places it in a position of great influence over the governments and media of other people's nations (where it has established powerful and wealthy colonies -- wealthier by far per capita than the native people themselves) and uses this influence to get those nations to give hundreds of billions of dollars and thousands of troops and the world's most sophisticated weaponry to facilitate that conquest; and when that tribe uses its great power to oppress others and institutes what can only be described as a half-century-long massacre; and when that tribe establishes itself as a nuclear power; and when that tribe uses its control of the American empire to foment horrible wars; and when that tribe espouses a fanatical doctrine of racial supremacy for itself (but pushes total racial egalitarianism on everyone else; see _The Culture of Critique_) -- then many humanitarian people of many ethnic backgrounds do indeed become concerned.

With all good wishes,

Kevin Alfred Strom.

The Founders were mainly farmers and beyond land and slaves didn't own much. The richest one had about $750,000 in 2010 dollars. The first American millionaire occurred in 1790.

The Enlightenment is the birth of Liberalism. The idea that people can govern themselves is the heart of liberalism. Conservatism is about kings and control.

planes have a squawk

[......[Secondary Surveillance Radar is referred to as "secondary", to distinguish it from the "primary radar" that works by passively bouncing a radio signal off the skin of the aircraft. Primary radar works best with large all-metal aircraft, but not so well on small, composite aircraft. Its range is also limited by terrain, rain or snow and also detects unwanted objects such as automobiles, hills and trees.
Furthermore not all primary radars can estimate the altitude of an aircraft. Secondary radar overcomes these limitations but it requires a radio transponder in the aircraft to respond to interrogation signals from the ground station to make the aircraft more visible and to report the aircraft's altitude.[7][8]].....]

Well. Education and learning can go a long way to eliminate ignorance, No?

Some elements a debate might contain. well a good debate;

Points and counter points.
Yes, using proven facts to prove your ideas or disprove your opponents.
Challenging assumptions and lies so often told , some believe them.
And I wouldn't assume any "facts" the government is pushing are indeed facts.
And name calling and attempts to "Kill the Messenger" or personality

Don't you agree?
Have any constructive additions?

I once read somewhere a few years ago that the commercial Aircraft that Germany buys from America, the Transponders can not be turned off via ground control.What the Germans do is, they rewire/rework/redo thingys pertaining to the Transponders in their commercial Aircraft.

What hijackers? You mean the ones they found alive?

I can't figure out nobody charged the living falsely accused pilots for attempted suicide. That way they could get them into court and ask them why they planned to take down the Twin Towers and let them talk for themselves instead of allowing Bush and Cheney to put all their words in their mouth for them.

I'd be willing to bet that the real hijackers of Flight 175 and Flight 93 were given promotions after the jets safety landed. Since Flight 11 and Flight 77 were never even boarded there was no need to hijack those two flights.

You are absolutely right but the people with all the money don't want us to think. They want to be able to use controlled demolitions right in front of our eyes and then blame a complete destruction on a few thousand gallons of kerosene. In other words the perpetrators of 9/11 want us to be complete idiots.

In a sane world, where physical science dominates and political science is not the standard, thermite in the dust and freefall speeds are thoroughly investigated, trials began, and the guilt imprisoned or hung.

Our problem is not evidence and proof which need investigated, our problem is criminally treasonous public servants serving the puppet masters and not the people ...

A pilot may be asked to "Squawk Ident" by pressing the Ident button on his transponder.

Why?
Transponders are, in this day and age, essential to the safety of all flights both commercial and GA.
How could you password G.A aircraft where as many as 10 pilots fly a machine in one day.
And in the course of a crosscountry, be required to change the settings for reasons known only to Control.
In aviation there are enough things to cock up without inventing others.

At least that's what you've been fed.
And of course you can't draw any of those lines yourself so you simply believe other morons talking such trash.
But then it isn;t surprising because anytime anyuone that the left says Peter Sissons... and I was treated as a lunatic for daring to dissent.

Institutionally biased to the Left, politically correct and with a rudderless leadership. This is Peter Sissons' highly critical view of the BBC in his new memoirs, in which he describes his fascinating career over four decades as a television journalist. Here, in the latest part of our serialisation, he reveals how it was heresy at the BBC to question claims about climate change...

It's heresy not to question it on Fox "News." Maybe it's the kook right (and the energy interests for which it stands) that's full of shit and not the rest of the planet. Maybe, just maybe, it's The Koch Brothers and Republican party who are lying and bankrolling teams of professional liars. Maybe it's not the scientific community at all.
Maybe it's not the rest of the world at all. Maybe it's you.

If hyperconservatism is the unvarnished voice of the American people and democracy, then why does the kook right have to constantly raise and spend such crazy amounts of money to get its message to people who must surely understand it by now?

You're right. He was also a surveyor.

As a leader of the "progressive historians," or "progressive historiography," Beard introduced themes of economic self-interest and economic conflict regarding the adoption of the Constitution and the transformations caused by the Civil War. Thus he emphasized the long-term conflict among industrialists in the Northeast, farmers in the Midwest, and planters in the South that he saw as the cause of the Civil War. His study of the financial interests of the drafters of the United States Constitution (An Economic Interpretation of the Constitution) seemed radical in 1913, since he proposed that the U.S. Constitution was a product of economically determinist, land-holding founding fathers. He saw ideology as a product of economic interests.
[edit] Constitution

Historian Carl Becker in History of Political Parties in the Province of New York, 1760-1776 (1909) formulated the Progressive interpretation of the American Revolution. He said there were two revolutions: one against Britain to obtain home rule, and the other to determine who should rule at home. Beard expanded upon Becker's thesis, in terms of class conflict, in An Economic Interpretation of the Constitution of the United States (1913) and An Economic Interpretation of Jeffersonian Democracy (1915). To Beard, the Constitution was a counter-revolution, set up by rich bondholders ("personalty" since bonds were "personal property"), in opposition to the farmers and planters ("realty" since land was "real property.") Beard argued the Constitution was designed to reverse the radical democratic tendencies unleashed by the Revolution among the common people, especially farmers and debtors. In 1800, said Beard, the farmers and debtors, led by plantation slave owners, overthrew the capitalists and established Jeffersonian democracy. Other historians supported the class-conflict interpretation, noting the states confiscated great semi-feudal landholdings of loyalists and gave them out in small parcels to ordinary farmers. Conservatives, such as William Howard Taft, were shocked at the Progressive interpretation because it seemed to belittle the Constitution.[12] Many scholars, however, eventually adopted Beard's thesis and by 1950 it had become the standard interpretation of the era.

Beginning about 1950, however, historians started to argue that the progressive interpretation was factually incorrect. These historians were led by Charles A. Barker, Philip Crowl, Richard P. McCormick, William Pool, Robert Thomas, John Munroe, Robert E. Brown and B. Kathryn Brown, and above all Forrest McDonald.[13]

Forrest McDonald in We The People: The Economic Origins of the Constitution (1958) argued that Charles Beard had misinterpreted the economic interests involved in writing the Constitution. Instead of two interests, landed and mercantile, which conflicted, there were three dozen identifiable interests that forced the delegates to bargain.

Evaluating the historiographical debate, Peter Novick concluded:

ï¿½By the early 1960s it was generally accepted within the historical profession that ...Beardï¿½s Progressive version of the ...framing of the Constitution had been decisively refuted. American historians came to see ....the framers of the Constitution, rather than having self-interested motives, were led by concern for political unity, national economic development, and diplomatic security.ï¿½[14]

Beard's economic determinism was largely replaced by the intellectual history approach, which stressed the power of ideas, especially republicanism, in stimulating the Revolution.[15] However, the legacy of examining the economic interests of American historical actors endures.

You two idiots can get back to us when you have something more than your own fucked up conjecture.

If Obama wrote his own shit then he wouldn't be such a stammering idiot when the teleprompter doesn't work.
You speak of puppets when Obama has so many people pulling his strings he barely knows which way to turn. He can't even take a shit unless the SEIU or George Soros or Bill Ayers tells him it's OK.

Look up? I saw a news piece yesterday about how they collaborate and how Jon Favreau starts from essentially an outline and Obama tweeks that, and so on. The editing is perfectionist, and very much Obama's work.

Are you sure? The only skimmers I know of are for psk or cw/morse code.
Is there even one for RTTY?

My ham radio box runs Puppy Linux 511, which has Ubuntu tendencies, and is the fastest desktop in personal computing. If I do decide to expand my operations I'd prefer something GTK or Debian.

Here's a bunch of free stuff, including Windows applications.

What happened to all the passengers,may I ask ?

---------- Reply below ----------

I'm sure they were escorted off of Flight 93 and Flight 175 since those two airplanes were used for years after 9-11-01 but where they were taken nobody seems to know. Given Bush's ties to Hitler they might have been taken to a concentration camp.

As for the passengers on Flight 11 and Flight 77? Most of those names might have been made up because there is no record of those two flights ever boarding.

It's for their own good. Besides, who would want to find homes for all

Using your logic and rereading your poorly written response, I would suggest that you are (1) utterly incompetent and everything you write is garbage and
(2) your assesment of Obama and "libs" is directly tied to (1). Try again.

Why not just fly a jet into a high-rise filled with Independent Thinkers?
Oh yeah, you would need all the other shit that Bush/Cheney for their television special on 9-11-01 like drones and tons of nano thermite.

Pretty funny coming from someone is part of the Bush/Cheney Collective

Same shit, different decade because GOOD MEN did Absolutely Nothing
Such would NOT be tolerated in a society with a long memory.

"to leave now we would send a message to terrorists
and other potential adversaries around the world that they can change our policies by killing our people.
It would be open season on Americans."
-- Bill Clinton '93
just before he pulled out of Somalia.

To abandon this area now -- and to rely only on efforts against alQaeda from a distance -- would significantly hamper our ability to keep the pressure on al Qaeda, and create an unacceptable risk of additional attacks on our homeland and our allies.

Conduct Unbecoming Part I

Over the next two years, however, my experiences in the Clinton White House turned my gratitude and awe into shock, revulsion, and sorrow as I experienced the cavalier and self-serving way Clinton went about the business of running our country. I wrote my first book, Dereliction of Duty, documenting our former President's contempt for the military, his indifference to important issues except insofar as they served his own political or personal purposes, and his failure to accept his responsibilities as our commander-in-chief. Indeed, it is my sincere belief that the dereliction of duty and negligence of Bill Clinton paved the way for the tragic events and deaths of September 11, 2001.

Obama's Secret Link to Hamas, Part II

At the time I left my position in the Clinton White House I certainly couldn't have imagined we'd elect anyone more inept than Bill Clinton. Nor could I have predicted that just seven years after we'd been attacked and gone to war, we'd elect the most radical left-wing president in our nation's history. Few seem to have noticed, until recently, that Barack Obama is inclined to dispense with the key precepts our forefathers valued: a robust defense of American sovereignty and our national interest for one; limited government for another; fiscal prudence for a third.

LIBs are not-just mistaken, but EVIL.

Moral cowardice is fear of upholding the good for being good, and fear of opposing evil because it is evil; it is the necessary consequence of discarding morality as inconsequential, as if one can fake the character of a man, just as they think they can fake reality.

LIBs follow their philosophy as epitomized by their political leaders a philosophy based upon sacrifice of the individual to the collective, of the innocent to the guilty, of the Good to the Evil.

They are:
willing to sit out any battle, willing to cash in on the blood of the innocent, willing to plead the tender mercies of the desperate and deliberately evil, willing to dispense their version of 'justice' by condeming both the Murderer and their Murdered.

They do:
Reward the Guilty, Punish the Innocent, Champion the Mediocre, the Unworthy,
the Depraved on the basis of their Depravity.

"We'll actually have to work very hard to kill
as many people in the 21st century.
What's the difference?
This time, you think the victim could be you,"
Clinton'07

This is Clinton's Bridge to the 21st Century.
OBAMA has merely shown us all how actually-easy it was...
http://www.strangecosmos.com/images/content/109562.jpg

DESERVE FREEDOM.
DEMAND COMPETANCE.
DEMAND ACCOUNTABILITY.
DEFEAT LIB STRATEGIC INSANITY.

IT REALLY IS AS SIMPLE AS THAT because the TRUELY EVIL are abetted by the Venal and the WEAK.

LIB's plead for a Morality which holds COMPROMISE as it's standard of Value, making it possible to judge Virtue on the basis of the number of Values which one is willing to Betray.

It's a mystery how they somehow think, or whatever you want to call what they do, that the buildings were secretly loaded with explosives and nobody saw anything being installed, etc, but they then believe that the planes supposedly destroyed, and some of the supposed highjackers are "alive and well"?

The kooktardic "thought process" is endlessly amusing to ponder.

Earth to RHF...Earth to RHF....

1. It was a joke, and had nothing to do with liberals and or conservatives, as there are troofers on both sides of the political spectrum. Kooks come in all political flavors.

2. I think neutering is a much better option.

Oh? How would any-one be able to disguise an aircraft.
Here's a few reasons why what you claim is impossible
See, all those engines have logbooks, the airframe has logbooks.
These have to be signed out by a LAME. Each LAME has a registered number and signs off with the Company he works for The Certificate of Airworthiness and the Maintenance Release are mandatory documents and must be carried on the aircraft.
There's all the electronic certificates for the aircraft.
The Airlines Fault sheets

Yes, they are great invaders. Consider the proportions you yourself cited for Palestine: It would be as if 600 million Muslims came to the US, declared it to be an Islamic state, and started pushing non-Muslims into tiny enclaves after appropriating their homes and businesses.

(Of course, they _did_ invade Europe and the US, and _did_ take over many key positions which they shamelessly use for their advantage and to our disadvantage -- sch as fomenting our participation in illegal and murderous Middle Eastern wars.)

If we had kept the racial definition of citizenship which the Founding Fathers bequeathed to us, none of this -- not the Muslim invasion, not 9/11, not the Mestizo invasion, not the Jewish takeover of the media -- could ever have happened.

With every good wish,

Kevin Alfred Strom.

Frankly, I thought it was one of his weakest speeches. It was an inoffensive pep talk, which is fine, but it was internally inconsistent and short on specifics. I was fairly unimpressed - and I like Obama.

Has Obama raised taxes yet? Because I can point out several instances where he has dropped them significantly, but can think of not a single tax increase in the last ten years (and our taxes now are the lowest they've been overall in over half a century). Extremely stupid and short-sighted, IMHO. That's no way to rid ourselves of the growing debt that may ultimately sink us.

Somebody leaked it 3 hours early. Everybody in the room had already read it. I liked the part about taking the oil subsidies away. JFK proposed that once...

So far you nor the other poster that agreed with you has provided an iota of anything credible to back up your stupid assumptions.
You have basically stated that the previous president didn;t even know what he was going to be speaking about until his speech writer told him thus implying that the the speechwriters are really the ones that made policy.
And you have proof of such idiocy where?

Has Obama raised taxes yet? Because I can point out several instances where he has dropped them significantly, but can think of not a single tax increase in the last ten years (and our taxes now are the lowest they've been overall in over half a century). Extremely stupid and short-sighted, IMHO. That's no way to rid ourselves of the growing debt that may ultimately sink us.

Sure there is. Cut spending. The tax hikes in Obamacare will kick in soon.

There's no need for any debt whatever (unless your goal is to enrich the bankers).

The government can print a thousand dollar bill just as easily as it can print a thousand dollar bond. And the bill creates no debt.

The 8880 was only produced in 1978, though it was being sold new for several years after that. Think of an RF-2200 on steroids, using the same crystal calibration marker that made frequency measurement fairly accurate on the RF-2200. Same rotatable MW antenna, only bigger on the 8880. The 8880's "Achille's heel" was an easily-blown FET and that wasn't a problem with the cheaper, and easier to service, Panasonic RF-2200s and Sony 5900Ws.

Detroit Pistons moved to CBS due to HD Radio interference

Pete Skorich, Detroit Pistons Director of Broadcasting, addressed a rumor that RBR-TVBR heard regarding a rate reduction in The Detroit Pistons contract with Clear Channel's Sports WDFN-AM 1130 kHz over poor reception in the evenings. Details had it that 50-kW KMOX St. Louis (1120) and 50-kW WRVA Richmond (1140) were killing WDFN's nighttime signal because of their skywave HD Radio carriers on 1130. Well, Skorich tells us there was no rate reduction but instead a complete move to CBS Radio's The Ticket (WXYT) simulcast of 97.1 and 1270 some two years ago.

But he did note it was because of reception complaints: "That was one of the components, and we were with them for five years. They had a weak signal and we were getting a lot of people that could not hear us. It could have been [because of] HD Radio, but at the time we were totally unaware of it."

WDFN is 50-kW during the day, but lowers its power to 10-kW in the evenings. CBS Radio's KMOX added HD Radio in May, 2006. In the Summer of 2008, CC Radio pulled WRVA's nighttime digital signal "due to destructive interference to three high-power AM stations the company owns in Detroit, Milwaukee and Minneapolis operating on adjacent 1130 kHz," according to StopIBOC.com. This was potentially just after the Pistons moved to The Ticket.

RBR-TVBR observation: This has been a complaint from time to time for local stations affected at night by first-adjacent 50-kW skywave stations. Even full-time 50-kW AMs have issues in their markets from distant HD Radio skywave signals.

But this is the first time we've heard it could have been a factor in programming and associated revenue. You may note that on 1270 AM, there are no first adjacent 50-KW stations that would add HD Radio interference onto its signal. As well, it is 50-KW full-time.

http://www.rbr.com/radio/detroit-pistons-moved-to-cbs-due-to-hd-radio-interference.html

Well, Struble and the rest of the HD loons, you did it to yourselves! Let's up the power to -2db on FM, too (oh, that's right, only 150 FM stations are interested in upping power to max -10db). Stupid fucks - LMFAO!!! Let's totally destroy radio, so Struble can get his IPO!

At least that's what you've been fed.
And of course you can't draw any of those lines yourself so you simply believe other morons talking such trash.
But then it isn;t surprising because anytime anyuone that the left

those on the other side of the political aisle cold blooded and heartless.
You sir are too stupid to even see your own hypocrisy.

Reagan fired air traffic controllers leading to an immediate crisis. 20 years later they all retired at the same time creating another crisis. This should repeat every 20 years, with lessenning intensity, until retirements become better spread out.

Reagan released savings+loans from investment constraints whilst keeping FSLIC
guarentees in place. This allowed S+Ls to gamble freely with the government coverring their losses. They lost. S+Ls like FSLIC no longer exist, and RTC was a money losing business. This established the precedent for banks to gamble on a larger scale with the government coverring their losses.

Reagan began dismantling Depression era regulation of banks. Up till then the government guarenteed their losses, but it also put heavy restrictions on their gambling; after Reagan, Bush, Bush, and a few Republican congresses, the government still guarenteed their losses, but with practically no gambling restrictions. Bush gave us TARP, which was RTC on steroids.

Reagan abandonned all alternative energy projects, forcing the US to become more deeply involved in Middle East politics, leading to three expensive wars, and ongoing attrition such as Beirut, Cole, Khobar.

Reagan abandonned all alternative energy projects, leaving Americans with no viable alternatives at each subsequent recurring gasoline price spike. Each spike has put the US economy into spasms.

Reagan cut taxes and increased government borrowing to avoid balancing the budget. This led to a disconnect between revenue and spending, such that a whole generation has come to age being taught that taxes are punishment and have no relation whatsoever to government spending.

Reagan cut taxes and increased government borrowing to avoid balancing the budget. This led to continual deficits and increasing debt. Interest on the debt acts as indirect tax; the debt ties up money unavailable to businesses; the size of debt increases the perceived risk of default and higher interest demands.

Reagan began excessive, unnecessary military spending, coverring the spending with pseudopatriotism. It is now a parasite on the republic that is slowly draining away vitality, while it is politically immune from control.

Reagan began SDI which to date has only served to waste revenues, piss off Russia, give Americans a false sense of security, and kept defence contractors in champagne and caviar.

Reagan closed mental hospitals, to move patients to less expensive community residential facilities. Reagan didn't fund community residential facilities. This has resulted in seriously mentally ill abandonned to live on the streets until their inability to control their behaviour leads to felony convictions.
Prisons have become mental hospitals, a function they perform more expensively and less competently than hospitals they replaced. The mentally ill are traumatised beyond any hope of recovery.

Reagan began the attacks on public colleges and universities. These colleges had produced the professionals that transformed the economy from agarian to high tech. Now higher education is given such short shrift that centres of innovation are moving out of the US to India and China. Young adults and teenagers are simply not trained to maintain the economy they will inherit.

Reagan attacked productive, salaried workers in favour nonproductive speculators. This has resulted in economy that punishes and demoralises people who are actually producing new wealth in favour of people who merely gamble with other people's productive capacity and produce nothing of value themselves. Even the ability to create new value is disappearing from the US.

Reagan made it easier to acquire a prosperous company and then break it up and sell it off to pay off junk bonds. Thus publicly traded business no longer maintain a savings reserve, but rather keep their companies in perpetual debt to discourage raids. This means businesses require constant use of credit to maintain daily business. If banks suddenly stop all lending, these business found themselves suddenly unable to pay their debts, leading to an instant depression.

Reagan with the Federal Reserve developped the policy of keeping most Americans as close to poverty as possible whilst still spending money to control inflation. With every rising productivity this has led to little economic growth for most Americans (even declining since 2001) whilst all the profits get funnelled into a tiny fraction of the population. This has led to an imbalance of wealth that often precedes a civil war.

Reagan refused any critical introspection and disparaged any attempts by other.
This created an environment against introspection and twenty years later a president so blind to his own faults that he could not admit to doing a single mistake. Critical introspection has become equated to treason; this leads to a public caught in its own illusions of perfection, caught off from reality. Reality is not kind to people who ignore it.

If you look under DX Spots > Create Your Filter! and then go to "Mode", RTTY is one of the options available, and I think the skimmers are good for any of the digital modes listed there and of course for CW. I haven't been active with RTTY for some time so I don't normally filter for those spots, though.

I built a simple tube transmitter a while back that gives me about five watts out, and it's fun to sit down with this transmitter and, say, one of my portable SONY receivers and make QRP contacts. An hour or so ago I worked a guy up in Maine, who was also QRP with 3 watts. It's very "old school" and minimalist. Very cool. I've also build the little Rockmite transceiver and am currently working on one of the Ten Tec kits (a transceiver for 40 meters).

Don't underestimate the Christians in both The Promised Land and the next door Neighbors . Many (and more) of the Arabs(!) are bitter enemies of Islam since the last Crusade . The exact data may not be available ...

Over half of the Jews in Palestine are of Russian origin. Of the remainder, roughly two thirds are from the US. They all arrived within the last thirty years.

If it weren't for North America taxpayers pumping in free money, most of them would go back home. It's a failed state.

So what happened to all the Sefardic and Mizrachi jews ? Your statistical info is made up on a living room couch, either smoking crack or hash . I'm positive . P.S. Don't forget: the Falashas , Chinese (!) jews, India's (!) jews, Karaims, Black Hebrews (from Windy city),Yemenites ... the list is much longer,than quoted here.
Suggestion- read some statistical data,e.g. cia book.

http://3950.net/2011/01/liberty-net-january-22-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THERE WAS AN AMAZING debate this week between long-time Liberty Net participants and some neoconservatives who checked into the net at about the three hour point. The neocons support the regime in Washington and the so-called ï¿½war on terror,ï¿½ and oppose any dissenting views on the Middle East or 9/11. When the sparks flew between the opposing parties, the frank words that ensued were very interesting indeed.

Hereï¿½s a small selection of the topics discussed this time on amateur radioï¿½s longest-running discussion net:

ï¿½ Why is the Bank of America now demanding that all its employees and contractors hand over a list of ï¿½ and control over ï¿½ all their assets as a condition of employment? (30 minutes)

ï¿½ In Oakland, California ï¿½ which is 90% non-White ï¿½ a second grade teacher was recently suspended for asking students to disrobe and to engage in oral intercourse in the classroom. (35 minutes)

ï¿½ In Columbia, South Carolina a statue of George Washington was deliberately covered up during an ï¿½MLK Dayï¿½ celebration in order to avoid ï¿½offendingï¿½ the celebrants. This is how civilizations fall, as the founding people is replaced by others. (40 minutes)

ï¿½ For the first time ï¿½ and with full regulatory approval ï¿½ a US bank has been purchased by a Chinese state-owned bank. (50 minutes)

ï¿½ As more and more state and local governments teeter on the edge of bankruptcy, W1WCR proposes that they take a cue from California and begin paying their debts in scrip, which could be denominated in ï¿½Madoffsï¿½ instead of dollars. (1 hour 49 minutes)

ï¿½ As our educational system descends to the level of the Third World, it is essential to realize this fact: If the students themselves are of low intelligence and low genetic quality, no changes in technology, administration, curriculum, or student/teacher ratio can possibly improve the situation in any significant way. (2 hours 7 minutes)

ï¿½ Over 1,000 American women have been raped or gang raped by the Third Worlders they volunteered to help when they joined the Peace Corps ï¿½ and the Peace Corps has been covering up for the rapists. (2 hours 16 minutes)

ï¿½ The fundamental fallacies of neoconservatism are 1) that the regime in Washington is ï¿½our governmentï¿½ instead of a tyranny that has been captured by our most deadly enemies; and 2) that we should worship the ï¿½God of Israel.ï¿½ (3 hours 2 minutes)

ï¿½ Who benefits from fomenting war between the US and the Muslim world? Answer: the same Middle Eastern minority that controls our financial system and the major media. (3 hours 35 minutes)

You can hear the Liberty Net on the nearest clear frequency to 3950 kHz SSB every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time, or listen live on the Internet via N2SAG or N2IRJ, or listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week. The audio files are usually posted on the Sunday morning following the net ï¿½ youï¿½ll always see the latest file at the top of the right column. Just click to listen or download.

Thanks to W1WCR for running the Liberty Net for over three decades, and thanks to N2IRJ and N2SAG for giving the net a great online presence.

I wonder then what you make of this sentence from YOUR Declaration of Independence!

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

The above excerpt is what the founding fathers bequeathed to you as one of the most important underlying principles of your country. So important are these words that many countries have adopted the same or similar into their constitutions.

If the Muslims, the Jews and the Mexicans of whom you speak are citizens of the United States of America, they automatically gain the benefit of these rights. Note also that, according to the above, the rights apply to ALL MEN so it would seem that they also apply to non-US citizens.

If you perceive that an invasion of your country has taken place, I might point out that you, as descended from Europeans, once invaded and took over that country which you now know as the United States of America but was, I am sure, called something entirely different by the natives your "race" displaced.

The Jews, whom you disparage and despise, came to your country legally and legitimately, saw opportunity and made use of it. The fact that you and your kind did not see the opportunities nor see fit to take advantage of them, says more about you than it does about the Jews.

If Jews now occupy "key positions" in your society, it is to their credit. They worked to get where they are, you obviously didn't work as hard. Sour grapes on your part, no doubt!

Ultimately, if you are dissatisfied with the situation as it stands, you have the right to vote at the next election. You even have the right to stand on a soapbox and make yourself heard. I suspect however that you would need the credibility of achievement to give your words sufficient strength.

You obviously have little understanding of what Fort Knox is for, apart from the protection of the gold contained therein.

The printing of a thousand dollar bill creates a debt of a thousand dollars equally as much as the printing of a thousand dollar bond. It's just that the debt is far too subtle for you to comprehend. It is, nevertheless, a debt which will need to be repaid at some time in the future.

You have been outside the boundaries of the United States, haven't you? From your statement above, it would appear that you have not. Have a tour of countries such as Italy, Spain, Greece and Eastern European countries and it would quickly become apparent to you that all is not well with your statement.

Well, I'll just ignore the personal insults, which are irrelevant.

You are wrong: The printing of a thousand dollar bill creates no debt. Under some circumstances, it could dilute the currency's overall value by a small percentage. But that is not a debt. And no interest to the bankers (or any other bondholders) need be paid on it.

There was a time (almost 100 years ago now) when the government had the power to create money; interest-free money. Now the government has abandoned that power and granted a monopoly on money creation to the banking system. All at interest, of course.

I suppose that Jefferson (who believed in racial separation on a continental scale -- freed Blacks were to have their own country on another continent) would heartily agree with me (and probably with you) that all races deserve independence and self-determination. That doesn't mean they should all live in the same country and under the same government, though. In fact, it means the opposite.

There were many Amerindian nations present when the modern European nations showed up. They had been displacing and invading _each other_ for thousands of years before 1492. In fact, some of them may have invaded and displaced earlier European arrivals, such as the Vikings and the Solutreans.

But I also believe that a dishonorable course was followed by the federal government in Washington in relations with the Amerindian peoples. Treaties should have been honored, and were not; cultures and genes could have been protected, and were not; deception was often used by Washington, and that is dishonorable. It's about time we all learned just how dishonorable the regime in Washington is.

The proper way for differing human groups to peaceably coexist on an increasingly crowded planet Earth is, I think, to follow the Maxim of Self-Determination, which is:

"Every people which considers itself to _be_ a people should, to the maximum extent possible, live under its own government."

The tube transmitter uses two 117N7 tubes. It's crystal controlled so I spend most of my time calling CQ rather than "hunting and pouncing". I'm meaning to order a couple of additional crystals sooner or later. Right now I'm actually using a 3525 khz crystal with it in order to get on 40 meters. If I get an actual 40m crystal I'll get significantly more power out of the rig. It does a surprisingly good job and I've already made a lot of contacts with it.

I have used a couple of different antennas with the rig. One is a center-loaded vertical behind the house. Most of the time, though, I use 20 ft or so of wire to fashion a loop element which I then tune with my MFJ-936B loop tuner. I've had some good times operating this way and I love the loop tuner as it's easily moved from one location to another. I also like loops.

I'm really looking forward to finishing the Ten Tec kit, since it's got a VFO circuit. I thought long and hard about which kit I wanted to build and the Ten Tec ones really appeal to me. For one thing, although they're small, they're not so small that I feel I need a microscope to work on them, and there's enough room inside the chassis to make modifications down the road and add some "extras". I'm definitely going to want to install an internal keyer of some kind. I also have a "Freq mite" here that I'm not using, so I might install that as well. It could be pretty "tricked out" before I'm through.

The now notorious and apparently crazy liberal group ACORN (the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now) was actually a black ops front organization, devised during the Nixon era to discredit the Left. Its greatest victory came in 2009 when conservative activists videoed ACORN employees advising on how best to run a child-prostitution ring while avoiding taxes. You don't think even a left-wing, "social justice" organization could be that dumb, do you? It was all part of the plan. The CIA's plan.

Totally off your rockers. 9-11 was a gold robbery with the terrorist attack providing cover. It was a reason to spend two billion dollars a day on General Dynamics and Lockheed and Kellogg Brown and Root.

The investigation should point to the Bush Crime Family, the head of whom is called "Poppy" Bush. From the formation of the Third Reich, the birth of the CIA, Bay of Pigs, JFK, Watergate, Reagan assassination attempt, Iran Contra, through today, the stink of the Bush Crime Family is always around.

I think he won in spite of election fraud. He isn't the monster they depict in the media. He seems like a decent if not somewhat dorky teacher with a gift for consensus, and a decent set of middle-American ideals.

The angry white people get all the air time but they never get above 25% of the electorate, and they barely represent much of the total population at all. Most of us are proudly Homer Simpson.

A departed friend of mine impressed me at an impressionable time when he explained every dollar originates as work done by a human laborer and therefore has a certain human sanctity that should not be mocked (such as by hoarding to keep score-if making money is your sport, catch and release).

Huh?! Reagan got the Israelis to deliver shoulder launched missiles and F4 parts to Iran to get money to prop up right-wing dictators in Central

The whole rest of the world knows this stuff. You are kept behind a wall of confusion.

http://www.familyofsecrets.com/

These are the questions that launched Russ Baker into five years of research. The answers, based on hundreds of interviews, including with persons close to the Bush family who had never talked with reporters, proved astounding.

Not only, Baker found, had we missed the very essence of W., but also of his father and grandfather and in fact the entire clan. Moreover, behind the secrets of the Bushes and their circle lay larger ones that cast decades of American history in a new and revealing light.

The Bushes have been portrayed as everything from incompetents to ideologues to outright crooks. Many of their transgressions are now well known-- from grandfather Prescottï¿½s involvement with Nazi-era financiers to W.ï¿½s initiatives that weakened Americansï¿½ constitutional rights at every turn.

But Bakerï¿½s research took him to far deeper levels of insight into the American power machine, as it unearthed material of the sort more commonly identified with shady foreign regimes or Hollywood thrillers than with the still-hallowed U.S. presidency.

Baker explained this in a post-publication interview: ï¿½As I discovered, there was an entire hidden stratum of truth underlying the rise of the Bushes-- a truth that, if not reckoned with, threatens to derail the reforms we all hope are on the horizon.ï¿½

The copious evidence Baker assembles points to one jarring conclusion: that the parade of faces in the Bush White House were in fact bit players in a long-playing ï¿½shadow governmentï¿½ establishment that continues to influence events regardless of who-- or what party-- occupies the White House. Power cliques in this country, it turns out, function much as they do elsewhere in the world. Here, however, they are better hidden, in part-- paradoxically-- because we think our society is so open that hidden centers of power could not exist.

There is a tendency in America to tar anyone who sees larger configurations and coalescences of interests, irrespective of the quality of their research, as "conspiracy nuts." Yet the revelations and lessons of Family of Secrets come at us on practically every page, and with sourcing and documentation that have stood up to scrutiny. Moreover, they offer us a glimpse into something deeply embedded in our body politic, and profoundly dangerous to our democratic traditions.

Preposterous.

If I mine three quarters of an ounce of silver and have it coined into a dollar, no one owes me and I owe no one on account of it. It is merely a store of value, little different from a sack of grain or a book or a gem in that regard: no debt whatsoever.

However, the banks do create "forever debt." As soon as their fictitious "loans" are "paid off," the same imaginary money is instantly created and "loaned" again, with the result that the workers end up laboring half their lives or more for the bankers and their stockholders.

With my best,

Kevin.

The sole purpose of politicians everywhere has been to put their populations into debt. These middlemen between the money and it's victims deserve a very special place in hell. It's feudalism all over again, with the new twist of intermediary leeches thrown in.

I calculate that if ALL deficit spending in the US were to stop now AND all interest on the accrued debt were to be 'forgiven' AND there are no more tax reductions AND not a penny is spent on ANYTHING, it would take ALL the money raised by the government for the next 25 years to pay it off.

Not one of those four items will happen. You're screwed.

On a side note:
The bankers will no doubt make war on China rather than repay the loans.
Kill the lender. Quite Shakespearian, no?

In Alberta the provincial govt. was sterilizing women thought to be dimwitted until the year 1972. A lot of thew US states probably did the same thing. Eugenics was the prevailing philosophy.

The zionists in Germany before and during the war were collaborating with the Nazis as to this betterment of their own respective peoples. They even wore the same brown shirts.

The zionists didn't want what they considered the dregs of Judaism polluting the new homeland. Ever wonder why over 90 percent of the camp survivors were Ashkenazi and NOT Sephardic?

Between 90 and 1994 the Russian immigration increased the population by 12 percent.

In 1995 and 1996, rougly 83% of all immigrants into Israel; ca. 59,000; came from Russia and the CIS. Today, about 20% of the Jews in Israel speak Russian

http://www.hangoverguide.com/factbook/jews_ru.html

During the 1990s, the Jewish population growth rate was about 3% per year, as a result of massive immigration to Israel, primarily from the republics of the former Soviet Union.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Demographics_of_Israel#Total_population

Foreign-born population as a percentage of total population (2006): 33.8%

The third aliyah, between 1919 and 1923, was made up of a further 35,000 immigrants, approximately, predominantly from Poland and Russia or the Soviet Union and motivated, among other things, by the Balfour Declaration and the associated boost for the Zionist project, which aspired towards an independent Jewish state.3

Between 1924 and 1931 a further 80,000 Jews arrived, once again primarily from the Soviet Union and Poland.The biggest wave of immigration to date started after the fall of the Iron Curtain.

It was characterised by the fact that almost 90% of the immigrants came from the former Soviet Union and this continues on a low level through to this day

Actually, voluntary eugenics is the only possible way to avoid a Big Brother police state. High quality people need very few police and very few laws. Low quality people require endless laws and a policeman on every corner, if not on every rooftop. In America, for example, as our genetic quality declines, prisons have become one of our main growth industries.

http://nationalvanguard.org/2010/10/the-only-way-to-a-better-world/

Whichever people implements eugenics on a large enough scale will rise to great, perhaps unassailable, power in a few generations.
Unless the West rids itself of its equalitarian delusions, that people will be the Chinese.

With all good wishes,

Kevin Alfred Strom.

They haven't tried eugenics yet.

They'll have to abandon their crazy Communist "equality" ideology to the extent of recognizing real genetic differences before they can.
But, once they start, they may well be unstoppable.

These public servant cowards telling me to be afraid of terrorists on my streets with bombs, or in caves in afghanistan had better tuck it up their arse.

These cowards speak to an American Patriot. I don't fear bearded men with box cutters, headbands, guns, knives or bombs -- I fear the corrupt criminal treasonous b*st*rds who infiltrate my public servant offices.

I am not afraid to walk my streets, arm myself or protect myself, my family or my friends. But, I am afraid of feminized males who are afraid. I am afraid of limpwristed individuals who won't even more to protect themselves.

No. To be truthful, I fear my public servants. That they will attempt to create some imaginary enemy and use that fear to control my fellow citizens.

To put it simple, I question authority and the fears and "enemies" they would control me with.

What part of the state do you live in? Down toward St. George is not bad, nor is the Orem/Provo area. Best is down in Sevier county. Pretty dry along most of the Wasatch, though, poor ground conductivity. Welcome to the

It's the lack of sunspots. Hard to get 2 hops in these conditions. Try for Asian transmitters on high bands after dark.

QST de W1AW
Propagation Forecast Bulletin 4 ARLP004
From Tad Cook, K7RA
Seattle, WA January 28, 2011
To all radio amateurs

ARLP004 Propagation de K7RA

Average daily sunspot numbers rose over the past week (ending January 26) by 11.3 points to 32.6, compared to the previous week. Average daily solar flux rose 3.1 points to 83.5. Planetary A index average was down two points to 2.9, and mid-latitude A index was down 1.5 points to 2.4.

On Thursday, January 27 the sunspot number was 0, but a new spot is emerging near the horizon in the southeast quadrant.

The latest prediction from NOAA/USAF shows lower solar activity, with solar flux for January 28 at 79, then 80 for January 29 through February 6, and 82 for February 7-22, and 88 on February 23. This forecast is from Thursday, January 27 and is much more optimistic than the Wednesday forecast, which was reported in the ARRL Letter.

NOAA/USAF shows a planetary A index of 5 on January 28 through February 2, then 8 on February 3, 12 on February 4, and 8 on February 5.

Geophysical Institute Prague sees quiet conditions January 28 through February 1, quiet to unsettled February 2 and unsettled February 3.

This weekend is the CQ World Wide 160-Meter CW Contest, and geomagnetic conditions look stable, which is a favorable condition for this contest.

Ron McCollum, W7GTF sent an image of the cover of the March, 1956 issue of CQ Magazine, which has a picture of a solar disc with sunspots, and the headline, "Sunspot Report: ONCE IN A LIFETIME CONDITIONS - CQ EXCLUSIVE." Of course, as we know, after this magazine appeared on newsstands 55 years ago, conditions got even better over the next couple of years.

Ron wrote, "While cleaning out our family home (of 41 years) in Seattle in preparation to sell, and to finally get rid of nearly 50 years of radio magazines, I kept this CQ." What makes me nervous though is his statement "to finally get rid of."

Seattle has a very convenient and efficient recycling system that includes curbside pickup, which may make disposal a little too convenient. I certainly hope he found a good home for these journals. After all, they aren't making any more of them. Most of the great old issues of QST from the 1920s and 1930s disappeared in World War II paper drives.

While not related to amateur radio or propagation, Dick Bingham, W7WKR, who lives far off the grid at Stehekin, Washington (his station location listed in the FCC database is "1.2 miles up Company Creek Road!") sent in a useful, interesting and educational URL (see http://snipurl.com/1xal41) linking to a 15-part series on mathematics by Dr. Steven Strogatz that appeared last year in the New York Times. This series focuses on a practical understanding of a wide range of mathematics for lay people, such as myself.

STEREO coverage, for all practical purposes, now displays the entire Sun. It recently passed 99.7%, and by February 1 will surpass 99.8% coverage. At http://stereo.gsfc.nasa.gov you can only see a narrow slit of darkness on the Sun's far side, and on Friday morning the new emerging sunspot region shows as a bright white area just this side of -90 degrees longitude in our Sun's southern hemisphere.

NW7US has a page on "De-mystifying HF Radio Propagation and Modeling" at http://hfradio.org/ace-hf/ace-hf-demystified.html. Here you can find some examples of coverage maps, which we showed how to generate at http://www.voacap.com/coverage.html in last week's Propagation Forecast Bulletin ARLP003.

If you would like to make a comment or have a tip for our readers, email the author at, k7ra@arrl.net.

Monthly propagation charts between four USA regions and twelve overseas locations are at http://arrl.org/propagation.

Instructions for starting or ending email distribution of ARRL bulletins are at http://arrl.org/bulletins.

Sunspot numbers for January 20 through 26 were 32, 42, 36, 38, 28, 27, and 25, with a mean of 32.6. 10.7 cm flux was 82.3, 87.5, 87.7, 84.3, 82.5, 80.5 and 80 with a mean of 83.5. Estimated planetary A indices were 3, 3, 2, 2, 3, 4 and 3 with a mean of 2.9. Estimated mid-latitude A indices were 4, 2, 3, 1, 2, 3 and 2 with a mean of 2.4.

3070. Hallicrafters S-38EB

Greetings All!
I have acquired a Hallicrafters S-38EB, B is for blond cabinet, that I really am not interested in keeping. The radio works but needs to be recaped, cleaned up a bit, and the dial string replaced. Tubes seem to be okay. The dial string still works but is slipping some.

I can either do the work and maybe sell it then or sell it for a little less now. Would anyone be interested in it for $40 plus actual shipping? I can send pictures to serious parties. I guess I did not say anything really about the appearance of the radio. It is very clean on the inside, better than I would have expected. The bottom and back are still on the radio in pretty decent shape. There are the requisite scratches and a little rust. Glass is in good shape.

If you are interested in it let me know. If you want to see pictures let me know. Have a great weekend! Jon Boy.

If Civilization is the process of Freeing Man from other men, what can be said about those who argue for its opposite?

"Every aspect of our lives must be subjected to an inventory"
-- Shameless Politico THUG, Nancy Pelosi'09

LIBs simply need-you-to-agree, to hesitate and do Absolutely Nothing, to give them tacit consent to steal your rights one piece at a time just as you would any burglar the right to steal your silverware but only one piece at a time.

The consequence is that ceding one piece entitles them to take the entire set.

Those who govern DO NOT have Rights that you as Citizen do not.
You DELEGATE your Right never SURRENDER them.
LIBs would have you ignore this basic fact to have you believe that they can take away your Rights just as they can take away your chair.

LIBs need you to live in FEAR for having abandoned your only means of survival, and GUILT for knowing that you have done so willingly.
Those who do so, fail to understand, that the struggle to remain free is NO SACRIFICE except to those willing to live as a Slave, their Slave.

A Value is something that you work to achieve and maintain.
Virtue is the action taken to create and maintain such Value.
Thus a Value illicitly obtained retains no Value.

This is precisely-why the LIBs Ceaseless Quest for the Unearned must forever be ceaseless because undeserved cannot be seized, the unearned not ceded.

So? What have you done to Deserve Peace? to Deserve Freedom?

If it is Peace that you want, it is Dictatorship you must oppose.
If it is WAR you wish to prevent, it is the expropriation of Private Capital you must oppose.

WAR, in fact, is only possible when the wealth of the nation is held by its leaders rather than be rightly used by its citizens.
A free and productive people have nothing to gain from WAR, and, in fact, a great deal to lose.

DESERVE FREEDOM.
DEFEAT LIB STRATEGIC INSANITY.

AMBITIOUS MEN WILL NOT BE RULED.
PRODUCTIVE MEN WILL NOT STAGNATE.

Your choice?
Be SPARTACUS, or become GAIUS BALTAR in the service of unstoppable killing machines who promise (perhaps) to murder you last.

If a President of the United States ever lied to the American people he should resign.
-- William J. Clinton, 1974

"to leave now we would send a message to terrorists
and other potential adversaries around the world that they can change our policies by killing our people.
It would be open season on Americans."
-- Bill Clinton '93
just before he pulled out of Somalia.

To abandon this area now -- and to rely only on efforts against alQaeda from a distance -- would significantly hamper our ability to keep the pressure on al Qaeda, and create an UNACCEPTABLE RISK of additional attacks on our homeland and our allies.
-- OBAMA'09

OBAMA has merely shown up Clinton in how actually-easy it was.

"We'll actually have to work very hard to kill
as many people in the 21st century.
What's the difference?
This time, you think the victim could be you,"
Clinton'07

"I found Rahm. I created him. I made him what he is today."
-- Bill Clinton'10

You never want a serious crisis to go to waste.
-- Rahm Emanuel'08

Partially correct .Yes, only partially . But ... no official count of 'Return' to Palestine, as it was officially known then, prior to WW1 exists today . Throughout it's history Russian Empire AND it's successor states after 1918 weren't exactly a very comfortable place for anyone not of Russian Orthodox faith . And that includes Catholics and Protestants .And Muslims too . It was true a 100 years ago and it is true today . Now, since Jews were always and invariably considered to be a people without any rights and status (read scapegoats) anyone wth the first opportunity jumped on board the first available steamer and left . Holy Land wasn't a paradise in the 19th century and it it wasn't the Land of Milk and Honey in the 20th . . . BTW, who remembers the ' official ' causes of the Crimean War today ? It was said,of the rights of acces of the Holy Places in Jerusalem . Yes, sir !

A lot of people sleep with a handgun under their pillow. That's not necessarily paranoia. In today's climate, that's often smart thinking.

If you don't want sexual advances from the wife, it would be easier to get separate rooms. Waving a gun in her face is acceptable only in Mississippi, Texas and Libya....actually pulling the trigger is only good in Texas.

Tell that to the People of Egypt and Haiti...
One is DOING something about it, the other does Absolutely Nothing.

Which do you think will be free and prosperous sooner?

OBAMA is on the WRONG SIDE of History once again, like any LIB.
Proping up tyrants who by comparison make their own tactics look tame...

If Civilization is a result, rather than a process,
why is OBAMA pro-invasion, pro-torture, pro-domestic espionage?

If Civilization is a result, rather than a process,
why WOULDN'T you believe that Gov't may do anything it pleases while you only act with its permission?

and lastly,
If Civilization is a result, rather than a process,
why WOULDN'T you believe it easier to live as a Slave than to continue to struggle to remain free?

Choice examples of the LIB Strategic Insanity the must be defeated:

There is only one power that determines the course of History, just as it determines the course of every individual life
-- the POWER OF IDEAS.

Good Ideas and Right Thinking free Man from men.
Bad Ideas enslave men and deprive them of a future worth having.

Short of that, you are left with the capricious and the arbitrary, which is one step away from the Divine Right of Kings, Pharoahs, and Dictators to do as they please while you exist only with their permission.

Nothing is more powerful than a Constituency that has been Lied to and cheated out of a Future Worth Having. Only Evil can come from Evil.

History will show Clinton to be the Monster that he is, History will show OBAMA to be the Errorist that he is with only chaos and destruction marking the path where he has been.

Reality is what it is,
History repeats itself, first as TRAGEDY then as FARCE.

Rather than embracing the information and the change that is reshuffling the deck in a way where a TRUE PEACE may be possible, OBAMA reaches for the INTERNET KILL SWITCH.
BAD MOVE -- BUCKO, aren't you UP on recent events? or just too LIB stoopid.

The question remains,
why is OBAMA doing precisely what he pledged not to do?
why is he propping up tyrants who make his own actions look tame?
why is he taking America in a direction where it DOES NOT support freedom and self determination?
why would his policies be any different toward his own constituency?

It's an oxymoron at best. The people doing the civilizing have the least right to be doing it. "First the Missionaries come, then the soldiers..."

It would be a better world if all missionaries got killed instantly. Then their boats burned to the water line.

Abrahimic religions cause nothing but death and destruction. That alone is a weird thing, as Abraham never existed. He is merely a personification of Man's arrogance and evil.

Then he was only stating the obvious....

I think he was also suggesting that there is NO good or bad, there just is what there is. I say evil will shine through, no matter who writes the history. If you re-write history, it has zero value because you can't learn from it, or at least what you do learn will lead to the wrong conclusions. And that will lead to your loss of power and loss of ability to write the history.

People Who lie, generally won't get away with the lies for very long, but some lies last longer than others depending on their corruption of reality. I say History is to some extent, self correcting.

Here's the breakdown:

Ukraine 8
Russia 4
Germany 2
Czech Republic 4
Belarus 2
Poland 6
Netherlands 1
Belgium 1
Azores 1
Italy 2
Aruba 1

The mode on all but one of these was CW. (One of the QSOs with a Ukrainian station was in PSK-31 mode.)

Also received a QSL card from Franz Josef Land last week.

Where does the gun culture end? It will take less and less to start shooting other people. I can see gun fights erupting at polling booths.

Once the political loonies start shooting each other, the government will get the justification they need to 'protect' the citizens from each other. Think Patriot Act II.

Come to think of it, you have already lost all your rights anyway.
Homeland Security has over-ridden the Constitution.

Well then think about this: Carl Rowan, a very staunch advocate for public disarmament, and restrictive gun control, carried a piece. He got caught with it, after shooting someone in defense of his home.

When asked about the dichotomy, he explained that as long as the criminals are carrying, he will too. And he did not apologize for it

Reality is that the aggressor sets the rules of engagement. And there comes a point that you either rise to the engagement in your own defense, or you let the authorities dispose of your body.

Unfortunate that it has to get to that stage, but some human beings will not be tamed. And some judges will not take them off the streets.

I'm sorry to hear that . I've known just one fellow who was petrified so much -he resorted to such an extreme measure . Guess , things are a lot worse in some areas . Crime has actually gone up ,specifically violent, indiscriminant robberies and rapes and , alas ,the murders are out of control in the past few months .

They have a very unique mindset in that neck of the woods. Their relationship to the rest of the US isn't like other States. They don't even have to fly the national flag if they don't feel like it.

They managed a sweetheart deal at the time of 'sort of joining' the Union. I'm now wondering if Texas kills more prisoners per capita than fascist China.

No . PRC executes MORE prisoners every year, than Texas did in it's entire existence going all the way back since 1819 ! According to Wiki, that is about 1250 vs. 1700 (the actual number for China must be MUCH higher) .

Members of this group may be interested to know that my book 'Hitler's Radio War' will be published on January 31. This new, illustrated work is a study of the external service of the Nazi wartime radio and the 'pesonalities' who worked for it. Topics covered include Lord Haw-Haw, Axis Sally and Mary of Arnhem, as well as Germany's overt and clandestine broadcasts to Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union, the Middle East and other areas of the world. There is also a chapter on the Nazis' use of jazz and swing music to 'sway' overseas audiences in a direction favourable to the Nazis. Finally, the book attempts to guage the success of Nazi radio propaganda to the various target audiences.

'Hitler's Radio War' , published in London by Robert Hale Ltd, is available from all good book shops and online book sellers. Roger Tidy

you from home invasion? How many home invasions end with the robbers taking "defensive" weapons from the homeowners? How many homeowners are injured with their own defensive weapons?

(for some dangerous people it's easier to steal cars that are running than it is to defeat the alarms)

You have a twisted view of humanity. Some people think snobs should be more restricted.

I keep a loaded gun near my easy chair. Years ago it scared away someone trying to break down my door in the middle of the night. If he hadn't stopped from entering my home he would be dead now.

A victim of the ratings game, no doubt. The target audiences can be SO fickle.

Eduardo has an explanation and I'd like to hear it. I miss him and still admire how well he handled the juvenile attacks. A class act.

The Collapse of WTO Negotiations: Implications for the Middle Easthttp://www.merip.org/mero/mero011300.html

The Collapse of WTO Negotiations: Implications for the Middle East Developing countries in the Middle East, like other former Western colonies, have been told by the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank that there is only one model for national economic development: deregulate the economy, restructure it to focus on producing exports for the world market, and reduce government spending and social protections for the public that might discourage international investment. Follow this road and prosperity will result from increased foreign investment and increased access to First World markets; deviate from this model and the economy will stagnate. For developing countries, establishing the World Trade Organization five years ago, and the thousands of pages of rules that it enforces, merely consolidated the IMF-World Bank model of development.

Arab elites' opposition at the WTO may seem surprising given that the IMF, World Bank and the US government have long promoted Arab regimes supportive of their agenda and fostered Western-educated leaders schooled in the theology of deregulation, reduced social protections, and export-led growth. Algeria, Egypt, Jordan, Morocco and Tunisia were all subject to IMF-imposed structural adjustment programs. Along with Lebanon, they have all embarked upon export-led development strategies and privatization schemes, dramatically cutting back public services.
Even Syria and the Gulf states have recently moved in this direction.

I wonder if this is what set of Osama.

Anyway, notice the countries involved, Algeria, Egypt, Jordan, Morocco and Tunisia. They are all American client states (re: dictators).

The big problem for our "projection of force" in the region is that the locals have noticed that the cops, and para-military were trained by the U.S., and that the tear gas, bullets, and tanks come from here as well.
I wish their revolutions "good luck", but when/if they win, American-Arab relations are bound to hit a rocky patch.

It's a lack of critical thinking which permits people to believe the obvious falsehood that the races are equal.

And it is not "racism" to believe the evidence abundantly provided by Nature.

As for the birth certificate, it's a very minor point in the larger scheme of things.

With all due respect, Kevin, general trends and overall statistics do not measure the parameters of instantaneous personal achievement by individuals. There is nothing in the numbers of any race, culture, ethnicity, club, association, or organization, to preclude the brilliant, the accomplished, or the gifted in any group, at any time, no matter the general trends and statistics of the group.

Dismissing a group that is capable of producing superior individuals outside the standard deviation is inconsistent with a broad and open mind.

You're right about individuals, and so is Joe. And I don't "dismiss" any of my fellow creatures on planet Earth. But group averages are what make families, cities, societies, and civilizations what they are -- not the rare deviations from those averages. And, on average, the human races are far from equal. (They are even unequal, by the way, in their rates of producing extraordinary geniuses.)

And it is not "racism" (by which I mean racial hate) to recognize that fact.

It is also not "racism" to recognize that each race deserves to exist, whatever its qualities, and naturally desires to do so, and that it is a natural and good thing for each race to take steps to ensure its survival -- which necessarily means having some exclusive territory of its own, and its own government.

With my best,

Kevin.

Funny that people who group into "civilizations" are actually less likely to survive. The nomads will rule the future. Primitive cultures live within their means. Oink.

Explains a lot.

ONEONTA, N.Y. -- A producer of a documentary alleging conspiracy theories behind the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks has been arrested on drug charges in upstate New York.

Oneonta police tell the Daily Star of Oneonta that 27-year-old Korey Rowe and a 19-year-old Bronx man were arrested after selling packets of heroin to an undercover officer.

Rowe was arraigned last Friday on a felony count of criminal sale of a controlled substance.
Authorities say the Oneonta resident was released from Otsego County Jail after posting $10,000 cash bail.

It couldn't be determined if he had a lawyer. Rowe's phone number was unlisted.
An Army veteran of Iraq and Afghanistan, Rowe was a producer of "Loose Change," a 2006 film that challenged the official explanation of the attacks on Sept. 11, 2001.

Very interesting. Should the Internet "kill switch" ever be used by the regime in Washington, amateur radio networks like the Liberty Net and others would still be able to communicate.

The CIA must have taught him well. They've been transporting and selling drugs since the Viet Nam days. It's a great source of under the table income. Some people think that a third of the CIA operating capital comes from illegal drugs. There's no accountability to the people for those projects.

That doesn't make any difference if the machinery in the background

Well, put up a new inverted-L antenna - 30 feet up a tree, 60 feet across horz and over the house rooftop (nowhere else to go!), base ~20 feet from house. Using a winradio 9:1 unun matcher at the base, not yet grounded. In fact, so far none of the RF chain on this antenna is grounded. So far, so good - noise level fairly low (lower on almots all freqs than my DX-Ultra), AND signal strength on most bands roughly the same, varying depending on the band. One good thing I do notice is that on strong MW stations, he antenna does NOT reveal a 60 Hz background hum like the DX-Ultra does - I consider this a good sign. The far end is about 25 feet from the higher-tension power lines out back, and the near end is about 15 feet from the low-tension lines in front. Next steps -

1 - Ground the 9:1 unun
2 - Bury the coax from house to base of antenna (about 18 feet underground)
3 - Install RF isolator (Either Radioworks or Wellbrook AFI5030) at the house with or without a ground stake connection, depending on what works the best.

Have not had great reception so far this week, so no chance to really give it a workout.

Further reports to come. Thanks, guys, for all the input so far!

It's a great antenna - probably the best money can buy. It needs to be installed high up which can be done with standard TV mast fittings.
Must be well earthed for best results.

It is pretty discouraging, I'm beginning to think that the NRA may have a point, i.e. a militia to defend against all enemies, foreign and domestic . . .

You actually call them 'invasions' ? No, these are small 'police actions' . Very small, in fact .

The Boxer rebellion in China was partly due to drugs. The Chinese were sick of the US and England bringing in dope and wouldn't stop even after repeated requests.

The profit margin makes morals obsolete.

Viet Nam was also a 'Police Action'. 50+ thousand dead US military and countless thousands of the locals. Some of them are still dying or being born deformed from the Agent Orange.

It takes real Superheros to dump chemicals on babies' heads from 30,000 feet up.

The word 'War' isn't in the US vocabulary anymore. It's been 'Police Action' since WW II. 'Victims' has been replaced by 'Collateral Damage'
